CANNON BEATEN IN HOUSE VOTE ON CHAIR'S RULING

[BULLETIN.]

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Speaker Cannon was overruled on the proposition that the decision of the chair on the Norris amendment shall stand as the decision of the House, by a vote of 160 to 182.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—By a majority of 17 on a test vote the allied Insurgents and Democrats landed another vital blow upon Speaker Cannon this afternoon and its effect was a visible tottering of the Speaker's citadel of defiance.

The test vote was taken after Mr. Cannon had ruled against the Norris resolution, thus openly defying his combined foes.

A motion to lay the Norris appeal from the Speak's decision on the table was defeated by 164 ayes to 181 noes. This was a complete victory for the insurgents.

Its sting was deep and humiliating to the Speaker, who after announcing the result of the vote, said pathetically and in trembling tones that the question now was, "Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?"

Speaker Cannon almost immediately after the House reconvened defied the Democrats and insurgents in the terrific battle to overthrow him and ruled in favor of the point of order raised by his right hand man, Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania, against the Norris resolution to enlarge the rules committee and take its control from the Speaker. Representative Norris appealed.

Compromise in Vain.

The House met without a compromise having been reached. As the session opened, the regulars cheered and applauded, and the opposition added to the din lustily. Then the speaker began reading his ruling on the point of order amid absolute quiet. When he finished at 12:34 the regulars broke into cheers and terrific applause lasted for several minutes.

Then came Norris's appeal, and Dalzell moved to adjourn, but the motion was lost. Both sides were determined to carry on the fight to a finish.

Cannon Greeted With Cheers.

Promptly at noon Speaker Cannon called the House to order. When he entered the House the scene presented was one of great excitement. The applause and yelling of the members was vociferous, but the tumult was stilled while the clerk read the journal.

Representative Butler of Pennsylvania, and other regulars immediately began circulating petitions on the Republican side of the House to have a conference held tonight between all the Republicans and the insurgents in an endeavor to reach an agreement.

Representative Martin of South Dakota, who proposed a substitute for the Norris amendment that the Committee on Rules should consist of six Republicans and four

CAMPBELL IS ACCUSED OF FIST ATTACK

Francis A. Campbell, clerk of the Superior Civil Court, and prominent in political circles, will appear before Judge Parmenter on Monday in response to a summons issued to-day at the request of Joseph L. Kane, of East Boston, who charges that Campbell assaulted him in Tremont street Monday evening.

The fistic clash between the two men is said to have grown out of an attempt on the part of Campbell to oust one of his assistants who is a friend of Kane.

A conference that lasted about an hour preceded the granting of the summons. Lawyers Drew and Kennard were present to represent Kane, and Daniel H. Coakley represented Campbell. Both Campbell and Kane were also there. Robert Abbott of Cambridge, who saw the fight was also there.

No Warrant Asked.

The conference was private but it was understood that the reason a warant was not asked for, which would have called for the arrest of Campbell and the consequent giving of bail, was because he was in the building and volunteered to respond willingly to a summons.

Neither of the men showed any marks of the clash, although Kane exhibited a handkerchief that bore stains which he said represented the gory feature of the combat. Abbott told Judge Parmenter that he had seen the fight and that Campbell had hit Kane and that Kane had hit Campbell.

Unequal in Size.

Campbell is a larger man than Kane. The two men met about 7 o'clock on Monday evening in front of Zinn's florist store, and it is alleged that Campbell went for Kane.

Just why Kane waited so long before he decided to take legal action did not appear.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN KILLED UNDER TRAIN

The Somerville police are to-day trying to identify the body of an unknown man who was run over by the west-bound Troy express on the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine Railroad at the Bedford street crossing. The body is now at one of the local undertaking establishments awaiting a claimant. The police hope to identify the body through a button of the International Union of Steam Engineers which he carried on his coat. A ticket numbered 1,038, for an entertainment to be held on April 7 by the Somerville Aerie, F. O. E., was found in his pocket.

MILLION TO QUIT UNLESS STRIKE ENDS

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.—E. E. Greenawalt, president of the State Federation of Labor, to-day began preparations to call a State-wide general strike of 1,000,000 workers for Monday morning. Although President Greenawalt had not definitely decided on this course, it was declared that only an immediate promise of peace could avert the hastening of the State strike.

President Greenawalt to-day disclaimed all responsibility on the part of the strikers for the violence of yesterday.

"That can only do our case harm," he declared. The attempts to dynamite two cars last night to-day were the subjects of loose investigation by the police.

The situation to-day showed a firmer deadlock than had met the interests working for a settlement since the beginning of the strike.

The Rapid Transit Company has outlined the terms on which it will accept peace, and C. O. Pratt, international organizer of the car men, has definitely declared that the men will not return to work on those terms.

WENHAM STIRRED BY TAX JUGGLING CHARGE

WENHAM, March 19.—This town is much excited over the reports that have been circulated following an examination of the tax books of former Collector Frederick P. Stanton, who was succeeded last year by J. E. Kavanaugh.

It is declared that several taxpayers have received bills for back taxes that they paid and which do not appear to have been credited on the books. Frederick H. Prince paid taxes for between $1,400 and $1,500 for 1908, which are said not to be credited, and Joseph Lake, Mrs. Mary Reardon and George H. Wyatt, the two latter of Beverly Farms, say that they have received bills for taxes that they paid.

No charges have been made against Stanton. The selectmen say that they do not know just where they stand. Stanton said:

"When they get through raking me over the coals I may have something to say."

SHOT CAT, FINED $10 FOR NOT KILLING IT

BOGOTA, N. J., March 19.—Jacob Weisberger shot a neighbor's cat because it annoyed his pigeons, but the bullet did not kill it.

He was fined $10 by Justice Brait, who said: "I would dismiss the case had you killed the cat, but your aim was bad."

HARVARD GETS QUAKE RECORD

An earthquake was recorded by the Harvard College seismograph at 6:30 o'clock last evening, it became known to-day, and a dispatch from Cleveland says that instruments in that city recorded a similar disturbance early to-day. Professor J. B. Woodworth, who is in charge of the Harvard instrument, said that it looked as though the earthquake had been in the middle of the Pacific Ocean.

"In my opinion," said Professor Woodworth, to-day, "the disk, from the readings of the machine, the earthquake did not occur in South America as other stations have reported it. I have been unable to find out just exactly where it did occur, but I believe that the shock took place somewhere in the middle of the Pacific Ocean. The record which we obtained of the earthquake was very imperfect, and I cannot state with any degree of accuracy exactly where it did occur."

DIES OF GRIEF OVER HER DEAD SON

Grief for the death of her son was the primary cause of the death of Mrs. Ellen P. Kenerson at Beachmont. It was intensified by the peculiarly sad circumstances of the passing of Benjamin F. Kenerson at the City Hospital on February 25. Kenerson was engaged to Miss May Loud of Dorchester, and when the physicians found that there was no longer hope of his recovery Miss Loud made a wild ride in an automobile to get a marriage license, while the Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, also speeded madly in his automobile to the hospital, to perform the marriage ceremony. Both were too late, as Kenerson breathed his last as the rushing automobiles reached the hospital entrance. Mrs. Kenerson became ill on the day of her son's funeral, and failed steadily.

LODGE RULES TOWN MEETING

United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge missed all the fun at Washington to-day, but he made up for it by taking part in the town meeting at Nahant. Coming home especially for the occasion, he was rewarded by being elected moderator. The honor did not come as a surprise. It has been given to him every year for a long time. He did not make a speech—merely expressed his thanks—and then the balloting for the town officials began to end at 3 o'clock. About 190 were present.

There were two contests on—one for treasurer and the other for assessor. C. Cabot Johnson, who has been town treasurer for many years, was opposed by James J. Dezeney. The assessorship fight was a four-cornered one. The candidates were Walter Southwick, Bernard J. Curtahar, Daniel G. Finnerty and James C. Shaughnessy. It looked as though either Finnerty or Shaughnessy would win.

Then there was a spat over the new fire truck. It cost $3,000 and was taken on trial. Many of the citizens did not think it can climb the hills well enough and were in favor of not appropriating the money to pay for it.

GLOVER VS. TICKLE AT AMERICAN A. C.

The American A. C. will hold its next meet Thursday evening, staging four eight-round bouts. This club will limit its bouts hereafter to eight rounds, and many new faces will be seen in the ring.

Popular prices will be charged its patrons and good bouts put on. Barney Riley of South Boston will meet Kid West of Chelsea in the opening mixup, and Steve Kenney of Lawrence is to face Eddie Golden of Boston in the second. Jimmy Hanlon of Boston will box Pat Roco of Haverhill in the semi-final. Johnny Glover, the popular South Boston boy, will meet Ralph Tickle of Pawtucket in the main bout, which should be one of the best fights ever put on by the new club. Both boys have been showing class and are, as always, working upward.

CALL NEWELL IN LAND CASE

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Ballinger-Pinchot investigation was resumed to-day with F. H. Newell, director of the reclamation service, on the stand.

Director Newell went over practically the same ground covered by Chief Engineer Davis last week in regard to the attitude of Secretary Ballinger toward reclamation, corroborating the testimony of Mr. Davis with respect to the criticism passed by Mr. Ballinger upon the action of his predecessor, Mr. Garfield, in withdrawing power sites which Mr. Ballinger contended was done in violation of law.

Mr. Newell said he had protested to Secretary Ballinger shortly after he became the head of the Interior department against the statement being made in the newspapers, emanating from Mr. Ballinger, that there was to be a big "shake up" in the reclamation service. Such statements, he said, were inimical to the good of the service.

"I told Mr. Ballinger," said Mr. Newell, "that if they did not cease I would have to sever my connection with the service."

"What did he say to that?" asked Mr. Pepper.

"He simply flushed," replied Mr. Newell, "and did not say anything. Mr. Newell told of the instruction which Secretary Ballinger had given verbally to the reclamation service that it recommended the restoration to entry of lands which had been withdrawn by Secretary Garfield.

AMERICANS WIN ENGLISH EVENTS

LONDON, March 19.—At the inter-university sporting meet here to-day M. Y. MacDonald of Oxford, an American Rhodes scholarship student, won the 120-yard hurdle race in 1 minute 16 seconds.

G. E. Putnam of Kansas, another Rhodes scholar at Oxford, won the hammer-throwing contest with a score of 140 feet 8 inches.

DOVES GETTING TO FORM VERY FAST

By W. H. ROSS.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 19.—The Doves are getting into shape pretty fast. When the day dawned there wasn't a man in the squad who wasn't feeling better and not one of them who cannot be termed in fair form. Manager Lake said he was surprised to see how soon his boys began to get into condition.

"Young fellows," he said, "soon get over being lame. It's the old boys who get tied up into kinks that it takes a long time to straighten out. The kids don't have to nurse themselves. This team will be fit to play ball long before a nine of vets could duck the arnica bottle."

Lake starts the team at batting practice the first thing every day and works one squad of pitchers in the box in the morning and the other in the afternoon. During the two sessions he has every twirler at work, and he is looking the bunch over with as much care as a race horse trainer would bestow on his string of thoroughbreds. It will be several days before the twirlers will try to do much more than get their wings limbered up.

He is just about as willing a man as ever trotted out on a ball field. Richie

NEW YORK, March 19.—Tom L. Johnson, formerly Mayor of Cleveland, Ohio, is again at Prince George Hospital in this city and is again understood to be ill.

FREE APPLES IN SMASH-UP

A collision in Summer street between a street car and vegetable wagon to-day attracted hundreds of persons who helped themselves to several barrels of apples scattered about the street.

The wagon was owned and driven by Jacob Silverman of No. 73 Willis street. While crossing Summer street from Otis to Kingston a car bound for Franklin Park crashed into the wagon, overturning it and smashing the front vestibule of the car. The driver of the wagon saved himself by jumping. The car was in charge of Conductor Edward W. Springer and Motorman Allen Jarvis. The collision tied up traffic for twenty minutes.

CHECKS SHOW COLEMAN CHUM OF 'BIG BILL'

A review of the list of checks upon which George W. Coleman drew $135,000 of the money of the Cambridge National City Bank, the bulk of which was lost to the faro swindlers' gang, shows that while he began his pilfering last June it was not until he became intimate with "Big Bill" Kelliher that it became frequent and in large amounts.

There are forty-three checks on the list returned with the indictments found by the Federal Grand Jury. Only nine of these were drawn between June 2 and October 2. In the succeeding four months there were thirty-five.

Faro Gang Not Indicted.

The failure of the Federal Grand Jury to return indictments against the faro gang is not explained by United States District Attorney French. He says that he laid before the Grand Jury all evidence of any nature concerning every person in any way connected with the wrecking of the bank. The indictments, four in number, were returned against Coleman and Wilson W. Lockhart, his chauffeur.

There are sixty-three counts in the indictment against Coleman, forty-three alleging misapplication of the funds of the bank and the other twenty alleging the making of false entries in the books of the bank.

Against Lockhart forty-nine counts are specified, forty-three alleging that he aided and abetted Coleman in the misapplication of the funds and the other six alleging the making of false entries.

Arraignment Next Week.

For the alleged misapplications Coleman and Lockhart are jointly indicted twice, once under the old Federal code and once under the new.

Coleman and Lockhart will probably be arraigned before Judge Lowell next week. The penalty for misapplication of funds, according to the Federal statute under which they will be tried, is not less than five and not more than ten years in prison.

SEVERAL PERISH IN BIG YOKOHAMA FIRE

YOKOHAMA, March 19.—More than 500 houses lies in ruins to-day as the result of the $3,000,000 conflagration of yesterday. The fire dealt Yokohama one of the heaviest blows the city has received in decades. Many of the finest residences were burned. Seven bodies have been recovered from the debris, and it is believed that many more persons perished. Scores have been reported unaccounted for.

CANNON IN RETREAT WITH ONLY HOPE FOR A VICTORY IN TAFT

Democrats, to be elected by the House, amended his substitute for presentation to the House later in the day by providing that the Speaker shall be eliminated from the committee and that it shall take effect March 3, 1911. The regulars and the Democrats, it was immediately declared, would not accept this "compromise."

Speaker Announces Ruling.

It was 12:20 before the Speaker reached the vital question, it having taken that time to correct the record of yesterday. He opened the proceedings by causing the clerk to read the Norris resolution to amend the rules. The House was in deep attention, as the moment arived for the Speaker to render his ruling on the point of order raised by Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania.

In making the decision Speaker Cannon said in part:

"The chair has been somewhat criticised because in this matter he has been slow to rule. But the question which was brought so unexpectedly upon the attention of the House, in a revolutionary manner, as it seems to the chair, is of such transcending importance to the future procedure of the House, that the fullest, even the most protracted discussion seemed justifiable. In no other manner could the most complete information be brought to the consideration of the question and in no other way could the largest participation of the membership of the House be assured."

The Speaker went back to December 13, 1878, for a precedent, declaring that the identical question was answered then with a similar ruling. "There was a grave criticism of the ruling in those days," he said, "as now, but no man thought of appealing on a decision so consonant with reason."

At 12:25 Speaker Cannon began the delivery of his ruling. There was absolute quiet in the House, everyone realizing that a crisis in the organization had arrived.

To-day found Cannon playing a desperate game to save his position. With the Democrats and insurgents holding the whip the regulars are bending every energy to bring about a compromise. A score of schemes have been proposed and discussed from every angle by the fatigued legislators, worn out by the long struggle. But there is no indication that an agreement had been reached.

At the same time it was conceded that the resolution of Representative Norris, over which the battle has been waged, will hardly be adopted.

Favored as Compromise.

The plan which has met with most favor is that contained in the resolution agreed to by the regulars in conference increasing the committee to ten and eliminatin the Speaker as a member. This resolution reads:

"The Committee on Rules shall consist of ten members, six of whom shall be members of the majority party and four of whom shall be members of the minority party, all of whom shall be elected by the House by a majority vote. The Committee on Rules shall elect its own chairman. All rules or parts thereof inconsistent with this resolution are hereby repealed."

Speaker Cannon was the center of interest to-day. From the adjournment of the House at 4 p. m. yesterday he was constantly conferring with his lieutenants, and early to-day the meetings were resumed.

The matter was put up squarely to the Speaker by the most faithful of his adherents and a general plea that he step down and prevent the final forcing of this issue by his opponents was made to him.

Situation Behind Struggle.

Behind the great struggle in the house there lies one of the most delicate national political situations that the United States has seen in years. With the administration known to be anxious over the affairs of the Republican party in several States, including two of the most important, New York and Ohio, and public sentiment on the whole reported to be strongly against the policies for which Cannon stands, the fate of the Republican party in the fight for the control of the House at the next election is one of the most important phases of the entire fight.

One of the national Republican leaders to-day declared that only the overthrow of Cannon could assure a general Republican victory. It is this that leads to the belief that Cannon's hope for intervention by the Administration is hopeless. It is known to every one in Washington that there is no great bond of sympathy between the President and the Speaker, but this would not interfere, it is believed, with the Administration's aiding Cannon if the political necessities require it, or if the fate of the Administration policies hang in the balance.

After an early conference to-day it was predicted by the leaders that the czar of the House will bow to the inevitable and that his letter of capitulation will be received by Monday.

The news that the Speaker is beaten was taken to him by his lieutenants, who for twenty hours had vainly battled on the floor of the House to prevent the humiliation of "Uncle Joe" and the long dominant faction. Cannon received the news quietly. Convinced that the end of his power was at hand, he announced that it was no use longer to continue the struggle and that he would make his ruling at the first opportunity. That opportunity came to-day and with it came the acknowledgement by the Speaker of his defeat.

Recovers From Break-Down.

The Speaker showed little signs of fatigue when the House convened to-day for the reopening of the fight. Even his enemies were forced to admire his wonderful vitality. The Czar had recovered from the breakdown that forced him temporarily early yesterday morning to give up the chair.

The Democrats privately admit that they were not in the least anxious to have Speaker Cannon resign, or even to see him removed from the rules chairmanship. While they will, of necessity, vote for the latter proposition, if opportunity offers, they prefer he would remain in that position.

"It will help keep the agitation against Cannonism alive in the next campaign," said a veteran Southern member.

The insurgents, who made the great revolt possible, desire to avoid political embarrassment. They are tremendously in earnest about the curtailment of the Speaker's power and the reformation of the rules. But they do not want to put themselves in a position where constituents can question their loyalty as Republicans.

"How long would Representative Gardner and Representative Ames last in their districts," asked one of the Speaker's friends, "should this House actually pass, with their aid to the control of the Democratic party?"

LYNN POLICE GET SUSPECT

The chief of police of Lynn received a cablegram to-day from Police Inspector Burckes of Lynn and Inspector Arthur Wells of the State police that they have arrived at Sofia, Bulgaria, on their mission to bring back Nalbandian, indicted for the murder last July of Minas Momjian, in what is known as the "Lynn trunk mystery."

The officers sailed from New York on March 2 and made what is regarded as an unusually fast journey to Bulgaria.

The cablegram says they "found everything all right" and that they will sail immediately from Constantinople with their prisoner. They expect to reach New York April 10 or 12.

FINED $500 IN BANKRUPT CASE

Louis Miller of East Boston was fined $500 to-day by Judge Dodge of the United States District Court for conspiracy to conceal assets in the bankruptcy of the Marshall Hay and Grain Company of East Boston. Miller also made restitution to the amount of $500 to Albert K. Tatter, trustee in bankruptcy of the company.

Jacob Freedman, who was also convicted in the same case, was before the court for sentence. A postponement was granted until 9:30 a. m. Monday to give James H. Vahey, counsel for Freedman, an opportunity to be heard on this matter of sentence.

Louis Canner, a third defendant in the case, had a stay of sentence granted until May 16 on the request of Assistant United States District Attorney Garland.

MAYOR IS AFTER THE DONOVAN MEN

The flat dictum that friends of James Donovan, late president of the Democratic City Committee, must get out of their berths in the municipal bath department has been submitted to the bath trustees by Mayor Fitzgerald. General Superintendent Joseph P. O'Brien and Miss Mary L. McCool, the executive clerk of the department, are the first special objects of the Mayor's order.

The penalty for refusal to obey the Mayor's order is dismissal for the trustees. It is understood that a number of the trustees will invite the mayor to follow that course if he chooses to, and that they will not make the dismissals he requires.

Countess in Disguise at Enchantress's Trial.

VENICE—Disguised as a peasant, the Countess Papadopoli, one of the leaders of Italy's world of fashion, to-day joined the common throng in court to attend the trial of the Countess Tarnowski, accused of plotting her husband's murder. The Countess Papadopoli showed intense interest in the testimony of "the Enchantress," watching her closely every moment. It was not till after the session that the disguised visitor was recognized by other society leaders, though her presence was known to a few.

The trial of the Countess Tarnowski, her maid, Elise Perier, and her admirers, Dr. Naumoff and the lawyer, Prilukoff, who deserted his family and eloped with the Countess after her divorce from her first husband, is absorbing the entire attention of the public. The Countess denied that she had ever received any money from Prilukoff. She always had plenty of her own, so she testified, in her possession, but she was accused of pawning her jewels. Many tender messages to the Countess were read. The Countess said that there had been several lunatics in her family. Her grandmother died in a madhouse.

Shackleton Sailed To-day.

LONDON—Sir Ernest Shackleton, commander of the expedition that got within 100 miles of the South Pole, left to-day on the liner Lusitania for America. He will go direct to Washington, where he is expected he will discuss Antarctic conditions with the managers of the expedition fathered by Engineer Peary. It is reported that Shackleton is preparing for another South Polar trip, on a much larger scale, to start in 1911 with two ships.

Charges to Stir Germans.

BERLIN—More scandal like that which overwhelmed the "Knights of the Round Table" is promised by Count von Gersdorff, who is a member of the Prussian House of Lords and has been a chamberlain to the Emperor.

The Count's wife, a sister of the first Countess von Pfeil, committed suicide at Monte Carlo. Count von Pfeil was tried by the imperial military authorities on the charge that he bribed their servant to swear falsely against his first wife when their marriage was dissolved. The military authorities have ordered a new trial for Count von Pfeil on the charge of perjury. So Von Gersdorff will have an opportunity to testify for Von Pfeil and to blurt out the damaging facts he pretends to know.

Frohman Proposes New Theatre.

LONDON—Charles Frohman desires to submit a proposal to the millionaires who founded the New Theatre and thereby gave to New York a distinctive theatrical endowment such as no other city in the world can boast. Mr. Frohman's suggestion is simply this: That if the gentlemen who erected the magnificent building in Central Park West will build a house suited for the purpose on the East Side, he will furnish to all that section of New York an annual bill of dramatic fare at present entirely beyond the means of the great majority of its population.

Thousand Decorate '48 Graves.

BERLIN—The customary pilgrimage to the little cemetery where the victims of the revolution of 1848 lie outdid all previous records in numbers attending. Thousands passed through the gates. Socialist and anarchist societies sent deputations, all bringing wreaths. One wreath with a dedicatory inscription was placed in the cemetery on behalf of the German Socialists in America. About sixty inscriptions were confiscated but no penalty was placed on the bearers, with the exception of one anarchist.

Rockefeller Unknown to Mail Men

BERLIN—A schoolgirl having heard that John D. Rockefeller was the most generous of men, wrote several letters to him, asking money to buy silk dresses and begging for a few thousand dollars that she might marry. Remarkable to tell, her letters were returned to her one day this week. They were stamped "wrong address," "undelivered," or to that effect. "I thought Mr. Rockefeller was better known in America," said the girl, who has married since she wrote to the oil magnate.

Fifty Lost on Ice Floe.

ST. PETERSBURG—Fifty fishermen who were working on the ice off the shore of Peterhof may have been lost. They were on an ice floe with horses and carts. A strong wind detached the floe, and it was carried to the Gulf of Finland.

Japs Restrict Land Rights.

TOKIO—The lower house of the Diet passed the land bill providing that a foreigner cannot own land in Japan unless he is a native of a country which permits Japanese to own their own land within its boundaries.

ROOSEVELT IN HURRIED PLAN FOR EUROPE

By A. J. LAMBERT.

Special correspondent of the Boston American with the Roosevelt party.

Special Cable to Boston American.

HALFA, EGYPT, ON BOARD THE ROOSEVELT SPECIAL TRAIN, March 19. —To-day is one of almost complete relaxation from the strenuosity of the preceding day.

In perfect comfort the Roosevelt party traversed the 475 miles of desert railway, which Kitchener built at the rate of a mile a day. This railroad was the real engineer of the destruction of the Madism. Captain Midwinter, the director of the Soudanese railways, who was its real head during construction, told the story of the building of the railroad, Roosevelt listening and at the same time interrogating Sir William Garstin, whose knowledge of Egyptian irrigation is extensive, writing his letters, preparing his address, in German, which is to be delivered at the Berlin University in May, and arranging the details of his itinerary. He finds now that by leaving Egypt on March 30 and pushing vigorously ahead he will be able to reach Berlin promptly on time, and by further vigorous travel reach London on May 16.

POLICE SHOOT DARING CROOK

NEW YORK, March 19.—While two detectives, one on the roof and the other in the rear court, watched the big apartment house, at Nos. 1222-1234 Boston Post road for a burglar early to-day, the robber slipped out of a vacant apartment on the second floor, climbed slowly up the fire escape and was ready to begin operations when one of the detectives shot him.

The robber continued on his way to the roof, sneaked past the detective in wait for him there, dived through a scuttle, ran down the stairs to the street, and reaching Boston road outstripped men who attempted to follow him.

In making his escape the burglar was forced to leave behind him a fur collared overcoat, silk lined, and a pair of new fawn-colored gloves. The police are positive that he is the "gentleman burglar" who has been operating in the Bronx for months.

CORESPONDENT MUST PAY DIVORCE FEES

NEW YORK, March 19.—An unusual order, in that it directs the corespondent in a divorce case to pay the costs of court and the counsel fees of the petitioner, has been made by Vice Chancellor Howell in his decision, granting a divorce to George W. Clark, of Plainfield, N. J. George E. Flannery, also of Plainfield, is the corespondent against whom the order is made. The two men were members of the same lodge and both families are well to do.

PRINCETON STUDENTS MAKE HIT IN SHOW

PRINCETON, N. J., March 19.—The Triangle Club of Princeton University gave its first performance of "His Honor the Sultan," this season's musical comedy, before the faculty and invited guests. The play was well received, the songs making a distinct hit. The Triangle Club will give the play in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor, New York, on the afternoon and evening of April 9.

ARBITRATION IS ACCEPTED.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Officials of railroads and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen met to-day and ratified the decision of the State Board of Arbitration which granted the switchmen involved in the wage controversy with employers an increase of two cents an hour. This means an aggregate increase of from $330,000 to $375,000 a year.

LE BLANC GIRL REPEATS GLOVER DEATH THREATS

New interest in the Glover case to-day centres in the startling testimony of Irene Le Blanc, sister of Hattie Le Blanc, who is accused of killing the Waltham laundryman, that Clarence F. Glover's widow told her that if it was shown that Hattie killed him she would take the Le Blanc sisters into her home to live with her.

Irene Le Blanc also has sworn that Mrs. Glover expressed herself as pleased with Glover's death. She said, according to the little French girl, that if Hattie killed him it was good enough for him, and that if someone else had done the killing it was even better.

"She said she would be free," testified the girl.

Irene Le Blanc's testimony was replete with contradictions of the story of the events following the killing told by Mrs. Glover. It indicated that the widow felt complete satisfaction with the removal of her husband.

It is such testimony as this that Mrs. Glover's lawyer has fought hard to have excluded, making the argument that such information should be given the District Attorney rather than introduced into a will probate hearing.

Hattie Le Blanc is soon to be a witness, and as the time for her appearance approaches, the attendants at the hearing are waiting in almost breathless suspense for her narrative of what transpired during the three days after Glover was killed, in which she was hidden in the Glover home.

HARVARD CLUBS IN WRANGLE

The disbanding of the Polo Club, one of the leading social organizations at Harvard, is a probable result of the row which marked the dinner of the class of 1913 at the American House. Not only the Polo Club, which is an exclusively freshmen's institution, but some of the other clubs as well, may go out of existence in consequence of the discussion now agitating Harvard.

Investigation made by the class authorities has shown that only about fifteen members were participants in the disorder, although there were more than 300 in the dining hall.

The Polo Club, to which all or nearly all of the fifteen disturbers are said to belong, is not an association of polo players, but is purely social in its nature.

EMPLOYERS CONCEDE PAINTERS' INCREASE

Several large firms have agreed to pay the $20 weekly minimum wage demanded by the men's union for house painters and $22.20 for decorators after April 1, according to officers of Painters' Union 11. The house painters now get 41 cents an hour and the decorators 46 cents. No change is desired in the hours of labor, the men at present having a forty-four-hour week. About 1,150 men will be affected by the demands of the union.

ACCUSED OF ATTEMPT TO ROB CHINAMAN

Mayland Haynes of No. 762 Shawmut avenue, was arraigned in the Roxbury Court charged with asault and battery with intent to rob. He pleaded not guilty and was jailed until Thursday, March 24, in default of $2,000 bonds. Haynes went into the laundry shop of Wing Lee, No. 60 Ruggles street, Roxbury, last night, and, it is charged, assaulted him with the leg of a chair inflicting three severe scalp wounds.

Good Bye Wrinkles

BEAUTIFUL BUST

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR VANISHES LIKE MAGIC BY NEW TREATMENT

Let this woman send you free, full particulars, follow her instructions, then if you are pleased, recommend her wonderful method to your friends.

SHE LOOKS LIKE A GIRL OF 18

This clever woman has not a wrinkle upon her face; she has discovered a marvelous, simple method which brought a wonderful change in her face in a single night. For removing wrinkles and developing the bust, her method is truly wonderfully rapid. She is fast becoming famous as the most expert beauty culturist in the world.

She made herself the woman she is today and brought about the wonderful change in her appearance in a secret and pleasant manner. Her complexion is as clear and fair as that of a child. She turned her scrawny figure into a beautiful bust and well-developed form.

You can imagine her joy, when, by her own simple treatment, she removed every wrinkle from her face and developed her thin neck and form to beautiful proportions.

Nothing is taken into the stomach, no masks or common massage, no harmful plasters, no rollers, no worthless creams.

By her remarkable process, she removes wrinkles and develops the whole figure plump and fat.

Mme. Cuningham, in an interview, admitted the wonderful success of her various new treatments and said she was trying to do a great good by unselfishly offering her wonderful methods to unattractive girls and women. It is said that this new treatment for wrinkles is the most marvelous ever known and that almost in a single night deep lines and wrinkles are removed from the face and that anyone may look from 20 to 30 years younger.

It is simply astonishing the hundreds of women who write in regarding the wonderful results from this new beauty treatment, which is beautifying their face and form after beauty doctors and all other methods failed. Hundreds of women report astonishing results, and we are glad to make known the wonderful merits of an honest method which is deserving of such remarkable success as has crowned the efforts of this lovely woman. Mrs. E. Pahnke writes in that nearly every wrinkle left her face in one week, after using this wonderful treatment. Jennie Cook writes in that the results were wonderful. Margaret Cowan says this remarkable treatment beautifully cleared her face of wrinkles, and she says life is well worth living after all, when such a treatment prevents the appearance of age. Mrs. J. R. Johnson writes that under the treatment her complexion is wonderfully improved, and her bust is developing nicely. Mary Marritt, of Wisconsin, writes her wrinkles have entirely disappeared. Miss Hanson writes, her bust is beautifully developed. Mrs. Markham writes, she has not a wrinkle left. The valuable new beauty book which Madame Cuningham is sending free to thousands of women is certainly a blessing to womankind, as it makes known her remarkable methods of beautifying the face and figure of unattractive women.

All our readers should write her at once and she will send you, absolutely free, particulars regarding her various new beauty treatments and will show our readers how to quickly remove wrinkles; how to develop the bust; how to make long, thick eyelashes and eyebrows; how to instantly remove superfluous hair; how to remove blackheads, pimples and freckles; how to remove dark circles under the eyes; how to quickly remove double chin; how to build up sunken cheeks and add flesh to the body; how to darken gray hair and stop hair falling.

Simply address your letter to Evelyn Cuningham, Suite 235, 7 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill., and don't send any money, because particulars are free, as this charming woman is doing her utmost to benefit girls or women in need of secret information, which will add to their beauty and make life sweeter and lovelier in every way.

Everything she sends is free and private, and she wants every woman, mother, wife or girl to write for her famous beauty secrets and her valuable Beauty Book, "Nature's Way to Beauty," which will be sent free. Now is the time to write and learn her beauty secrets, lest your beauty passes, even as the petal of a rose withers into the drift of yesterday's flower.

The world would be better off if there were a few more kind [illegible] like this in it.

TWO FAMILIES SAVED FROM FIRE BY CAT

The crying of a pet cat probably saved two families from death in a fire in the two and one-half story building No. 76 Weld Hill street, Forest Hills. John Smith, who occupies the second floor, was awakened by the crying of the cat and discovered the house was in flames. He aroused the other members of his family and fled to the street, while John M. Braunies, who lives on the first floor, was also forced to flee.

TREASURERS REBEL AGAINST STEVENS

Because State Treasurer Stevens has required the endorsement of checks by mayors and selectmen as well as by city and town treasurers, Treasurer Willard of Waltham, has retaliated by having printed new checks upon which the endorsement of the Governor as well as that of the State Treasurer is required. The order of the State Treasurer made a number of local treasurers angry, but Mr. Willard is the first to put his feelings into official form.

$125,000 FIRE IN PITTSBURG FACTORY

PITTSBURG, March 19.—The most disastrous fire in the history of the Millvale district started early to-day in the Standard Box and Lumber Company's factory. It consumed the factory, six dwellings adjoining and caused $125,000 damages. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

OLD CUP DEFENDER TO BE DISMANTLED

The old Volunteer, defender of the America's cup against the Thistle in 1887, and the last of the famous Burgess trio of Boston cup defenders, is to be dismantled. The lead, spars and some of the fittings will be removed and her owner, Captain Charlie Barr, will sell the hull for service as a houseboat. The work of dismantling the famous craft will be begun at South Brooklyn next week.

TEACH CHILDREN IN SCHOOLS HOW TO EAT

CLEVELAND, March 19.—Believing that proper mastication of food has become a lost art, members of the National Dental Society, in a meeting here, launched a country-wide movement to teach the children of the public schools how to chew. The plan is to have each child's mouth examined, teeth treated, if necessary, and instructions given in the proper manner of using the jaws.

NOAH'S STORY OF FLOOD TOLD IN OLD TABLET

Boston and all New England were greatly interested to-day in the ancient section of a tablet that has just been discovered and which has lain hidden for about 4,000 years which corroborates the story of the flood as it is told in the Bible.

This tablet was discovered by Professor H. V. Hilprecht of the University of Pennsylvania, an undoubted authority on ancient languages and ancient sacred history. The importance of the discovery is that it goes to prove the historical accuracy of the Bible story of Noah which has been regarded by biblical skeptics as largely a work of the imagination. It also antedates by about 1,500 years the oldest tablet heretofore discovered bearing on this subject. This tablet is in the British Museum.

Professor Hilprecht has translated his tablet, supplying the words within parentheses from the context:

> (I declare unto) thee that the confines of Heaven I will loosen, a deluge I will make; and it shall sweep away all men together; but thou (the Babylonian Noah) seek life before the deluge cometh forth; for to all living beings as many as there are I will bring overthrow, destruction, annihilation * * * * build a great ship and * * * * total height shall be its structure. It shall be a house boat carrying what has been saved of life * * * * with a strong deck cover it. The ship which thou shalt make, into it bring the beasts of the field, the birds of Heaven and the creeping things, two of everything instead of a number * * * * and the family * * * *.

The Story From Genesis.

So that readers may see for themselves how Professor Hilprecht's tablet confirms the account in the Bible of the flood, the narrative as it is related in Genesis 6:13-22 is here given:

"And God said unto Noah, the end of all flesh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them, and behold I will destroy them with the earth.

"Make thee an ark of gopher wood; rooms shalt thou make in the ark, and pitch it within and without with pitch.

"And this is the fashion which thou shalt make it of: The length of the ark shall be 300 cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits.

"A window shalt thou make to the ark, and in a cubit shalt thou finish it above; and the door of the ark shalt thou set in the side thereof; with lower, second and third stories shalt thou make it.

"And, behold, I, even I, do bring a flood of waters upon the earth to destroy all flesh, wherein is the breath of life, from under Heaven; and everything that is in the earth shall die.

"But with thee will I establish my covenant, and thou shalt come into the ark, thou and thy sons and thy wife, and thy sons' wives with thee.

"And of every living thing of all flesh, two of every sort shalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee; they shall be male and female.

"Of fowls after their kind, and of cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind, two of every sort shall come unto thee to keep them alive.

"And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou shalt gather it to thee, and it shall be for food for thee and for them.

"Thus did Noah; according to all that God commanded him, so did he."

Most Important Discovery.

The discovery of the tablet was announced last night to a company of Professor Hilprecht's friends in Philadelphia, where he has taken the ancient relic. It was one of the discoveries as the result of an expedition sent out by the University of Pennsylvania last year. The find is in the form of a section of unbaked clay and is only 2¾ inches at its greatest width and 2⅜ inches at its greatest length.

Biblical students regard it as simply amazing in its similarity to the story in Genesis. The two stories tally in the most minute details. It is believed that the discovery will be regarded as the most important of all Assyrian research. The characters traced on the surface of the tablet greatly resemble Chinese characters.

Because of its long burial in the earth the tablet was encrusted with crystals of nitre, which filled up the characters of the ancient text. Besides, the clay was in a state of decomposition and exceedingly difficult to handle without destroying the tablet and losing the precious writings on it.

Professor Hilprecht worked for weeks several hours a day to remove the crystals and put the tablet into a state in which it could be deciphered. Then he set to work to translate the writing.

Errors of Translation.

In this, as in the Bible story, the Lord God, the great king of the gods of the ancient Semites, says:

"I will loosen the confines of Heaven. A deluge I will make and it shall sweep away all men together."

Even the errors in the translation of the Bible text from Hebrew to English and German mark the striking similarity between the Nippur story of the deluge and that of the ancient Hebrews.

It is pointed out by Professor Hilprecht that the word which the translators for a few hundred years rendered "window," and which appears in all later versions of the Bible as "window," really meant "roof" in the old Hebrew. Where our Bible say, "a window shalt thou make to the ark," it should have read, by correct translation, "a roof shall thou make to the ark."

CANCER

Hundreds Are Being Cured Without Operation.

Don't feel that you must suffer the surgeon's knife before you can be cured of cancer. A treatment has been discovered that is simple and can be taken at home at very small expense. Write at once for full particulars of this cure. Think how happy you will be when the development of the cancer has not only been checked, but cured forever. Write to-day, for hospitals will soon take up this cure, and it will not be so easy to have the opportunity of trying it by yourself. NOT WORRYING!

This photograph of President Taft was snapped in Chicago on St. Patrick's day. It shows him wearing the shamrock and his usual happy smile. Later reports say that in spite of the tragic events in progress at Washington, the President's smile is still visible to the naked eye.

ODDITIES in the Day's News

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 19.—The Rhode Island Anti-Tuberculosis Society recommends that school teachers be compelled to wear short skirts, and the teachers are all fussed up about it. The anti-tuberculosis movement recommends short skirts. The teachers declare they will not be dictated to.

Secretary Hatch of the R. I. A.-T. Society has opened a fine argument.

One pretty young teacher said with a blush: "Well, it isn't so awful."

But the others say they will fight.

SALAD DRESSING FOR BURGLAR.

NEW YORK, March 19.—An acceptable salad dressing easily might have been made from the condiments with which Harry Urian, a chauffeur, was showered by two boys who caught him in the flat in which they live at No. 2575 Eighth avenue. He almost sneezed to death because of the copious doses of pepper the boys poured into his hiding place, a clothes hamper.

HERE'S CHAMPION SICK MAN.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Max S. Grifenhagen, city register, has unearthed the record holder for long distance illness in the person of Mathew Farrell, a custodian in the office, who, Mr. Grifenhagen declared, has been reporting ill for eight years, during which he has been carried on the payroll. The salary of the office is $1,000.

DYING MAN SELECTS GRAVE.

NEW YORK, March 19.—After his physicians solemnly informed him that he had only a few days more to live Edward Way went to Greenwood Cemetery, selected a site for his grave, chose a coffin and ordered sent to his home the suit in which he was buried on Thursday.

WINE LURES BACK EXILES.

VALPARISO, Chili, March 19.—Two of the Peruvian priests recently banished from the Province of Tacna returned across the frontier and were to-day surprised in the act of quaffing deep draughts of wine in a cafe. Both were escorted back again across the frontier.

BURGLAR LEAVES SOUVENIR.

NEW YORK, March 19.—L. B. Fink is exhibiting to his friends a clear Havana cigar, nearly bound in a red band. It had been carefully placed in his bed room on the fourth floor of an apartment house at No. [illegible] Washington avenue by a burglar who got $10.

ARBUTUS ON THE JOB EARLY.

WINSTED, Ct., March 19.—Alexander Goodskey of Collinsville, while in the woods, found a small cluster of trailing arbutus in full bloom. This is exceptionally early. Mrs. Addison Tourtellotte of East Thompson picked a pansy in her front yard.

ANOTHER SIGN OF SPRING.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A robin redbreast was seen in Fort Greene Park, Brooklyn, to-day.

"FINGY" CONNERS IS A POOR LOSER

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 19.—W. J. Conners, chairman of the New York Democratic State Committee, is at dagger points with the Palm Beach Motor Boat Race Regatta Committee, declaring he is entitled to the cup for speed racers which the committee awarded to George Gingras. He has brought the matter before the regatta committee and shipped his boat, Courier II., north, refusing to compete in the final events.

MRS. WILCOX AMAZES MOORS

PARIS, March 18.—Ella Wheeler Wilcox arrived in Paris on Wednesday after a long journey in Tunis and Algiers. Accompanied by her husband, Robert Wilcox, she visited most of the smart French colonies.

Mrs. Wilcox was driven out of Biskra by her own popularity. One among her many accomplishments is that of reading palms. She became interested in an old Arab, to whom she explained her knowledge of palmistry. She read his hands, told him how many wives he had, how many children, related events of his life and described his character, greatly to the sheik's amazement.

Evidently he told his friends, for she was mobbed at the hotel and followed by crowds in the streets, all begging her to tell their fortunes. At last she was obliged to flee from the town under cover of night.

"It was ridiculous," she said, "but Biskra is the most beautiful town in the world, and now I can never dare go back there."

SLEZAK, OPERA TENOR, IN LIFTING CONTESTS

At the temporary Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, when the Metropolitan Opera Company arrives, Leo Slezak, the Polish tenor, who stands 6 feet 2 inches and who is possessed of unusual strength, will engage in a series of weight lifting contests with several strong men. Slezak, the largest man singing in grand opera, takes daily exercise with dumbbells and weights. In New York he defeated several professional strong men.

PEARLS WORTH $200 IN OYSTER STEW

NEW YORK, March 19.—An oyster craze has struck Westwood, N. J., and everybody is eating them, because George Perry, of Brooklyn, here to buy a house, stepped in at a restaurant and ordered oysters. He found four pearls worth $200. This news spread and the craze was on. When Perry displayed the pearls there was a dispute as to ownership, the restaurant proprietor, Hoffman, claiming them, but Perry took them away, having paid for his food.

WOMAN BADLY HURT BY FALL ON STAIRS

The police to-day are trying to ascertain the identity of a woman who lies at the Relief Hospital in an unconscious condition. She is suffering from a fractured skull. Her name is on the dangerous list and she is not expected to recover. The woman fell down a flight of stairs in the house at No. 18 Eliot street, South End. It is said she stepped on her skirt and fell headlong down the stairs. Her head struck the floor, fracturing her skull.

ADDISON THAYER'S CASE IS CONTINUED

Before United States Commissioner Hayes, in the Federal building, to-day, the case of Addison Thayer of Franklin well-known in business and social circles, came up on a continuance. He is charged with sending improper letters to a colored girl in violation of the postal laws. Arthur P. French, counsel for Thayer, asked for another continuance until next Saturday, and the request was granted.

SENATOR DANIEL'S CONDITION THE SAME

DAYTONA, Fla., March 19.—At 8 o'clock the physicians of Senator Daniel stated that his condition was unchanged. He has been unconscious for twenty-four hours. Pulse, temperature and kidney conditions are good and he is able to take an adequate amount of nourishment.

RICH ONCE; DIES POOR.

WALTHAM, March 19.—S. E. Ellis, but a few years ago one of the leading business men of this city and rated as worth at least $200,000 at that time, died in abject poverty in a lodging house here, where he had been taken in as a matter of charity.

TEACHER TRIED ON CHARGES IN SCHOOL WAR

CLINTON, March 19.—The accusation that Miss Margaret Tonry, teacher of the third and fourth grades of the High Street Grammar School, stood seven-year-old William Henry Hamilton on his head before the entire school a short time before the boy was fatally stricken with meningitis, has been made to the school committee by Mr. and Mrs. Govan Hamilton, parents of the dead boy.

This is the most serious among many charges against Miss Tonry, which are now being considered by the school committee. The other charges, according to parents who attended a secret hearing last night, include:

Terrorizing the children.

Nagging them.

Marking school papers wrong.

Telling certain children they were not bright.

Frightening children so that they sobbed.

General unfitness to handle children so young.

Not Blamed for Illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, after the hearing, said that they told the committee that Miss Tonry could not be blamed for their boy's illness, but that the boy had complained during his illness of severe pains in his head. They also told the committee that a short time previous to his illness Miss Tonry stood him on his head in the presence of the entire school.

They said that during his illness he appeared to be thoroughly frightened by his teacher and would cry out her name repeatedly.

The hearing last night was before five members of the school committee and Superintendent C. L. Hunt. Twelve witnesses were present. After the hearing the reporters were told by Chairman William H. Dietzman that the committee had received complaints from some of the parents of the children attending the public schools against a certain teacher of the schools and that the committee would investigate the charges. The committee refused to give the name of the teacher or of the parents who appeared. The committee said that the parents requested that the matter be kept secret for the present.

But the parents who came out from the hearing gave no indication that they wished secrecy observed. They declared that, while they did not wish to injure Miss Tonry, they thought she should be removed from care of such young children.

Await Board's Decision.

Among the parents present beside Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton were Mr. and Mrs. William Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Corse, Mrs. A. Anderson, Frank Bullard and Thomas Somerville.

Formal complaint had been made by parents through William S. Duncan of the committee.

At the hearing some of the parents claimed that their children had brought home papers which the teacher had marked wrong, also that half of the things marked wrong would be right. Parents seemed to agree that their children were so terrorized sometimes that they were afraid to return to school for the afternoon session, lest the teacher find fault with their work.

One parent is said to have told the committee of going to the school to see Miss Tonry and of being unable to see her. She sent a note to the teacher who, the parent claimed, read the note to the class and made sarcastic remarks about the child and the child's parents.

The hearing lasted from 8 to 10 o'clock. All the parents who appeared are agreed that, if the committee does not give them due consideration, they will take further action. But they are waiting to-day to see what the committee does.

CHICAGO BIG "DRY" PETITION INVALID

CHICAGO, March 19.—The battle between the "Wets" and "Drys" which was to have been decided by ballot April 5 reached a spectacular climax to-day. The citywide canvass was brought to an abrupt halt by the "Wets" attacking the validity of the 74,026-name petition by which the "Drys" had made prohibition a municipal issue. Attorneys for the saloon forces argued before the election commissioners that of the 74,026 signatures only 38,507 were of duly registered voters, and that there were 2,103 fictitious names and 1,200 duplications. The legal requirement to make the petition legal is 65,511 names.

FIREMEN JOIN ENGINEERS' UNION

Despite the alleged statement of Fire Commissioner Parker forbidding any of the engineers or assistant engineers of the fire department to join a union, two prominent firemen have become members of Boston Stationary Engineers' Union 16. According to President William R. F. Whelan, the union has received scores of applications from engineers and assistants in the fire department, and the attorney of the union will defend their rights. A committee has been chosen to act in conjunction with Attorney Frederick W. Mansfield in regard to this matter.

DARES DEATH TO SAVE AGED LYNN CRIPPLE

LYNN, March 19.—Blinded by heavy smoke so that she could not find her crutches, and with flames burning fiercely within a dozen feet of her arm chair, Mrs. Addie Leah, seventy years old and a cripple, was saved from death by the bravery of Frank Moulton in a fire which caused a loss of $2,500 in a tenement at No. 208 Chestnut street, shortly after 10 a. m. to-day.

The fire was caused by an overheated furnace whose hot air pipes acted as chimneys for the smoke and flames. The apartment of Clark Milburn on the first floor, where Mrs. Leah sat, were soon filled with flames. Passersby saw the smoke and ran to the Fayette street fire station, where the firemen were told of the fire.

The delay gave the fire a good start. A crowd collected about the house, none daring to enter. Even as the gongs of the fire apparatus were heard down the street, an aged neighbor shrieked, "There's an aged cripple woman in that house!"

Frank Moulton, aged twenty-four, and an employe of a shoe factory, smashed in a window with his fists and, climbing into the smoke and flame-filled rooms, groped about until he found Mrs. Leah. She was almost suffocated. When he emerged from the house the crowd cheered.

It is thought that a movement will be started to have application filed for a Carnegie medal for Moulton.

VARIETY OF OPINIONS OFFERED IN THE "FORTY IMMORTALS" CONTEST

THERE seems to be a great variety of opinions as to the forty Boston men most worthy of places in the Hall of Fame—if we ever have one.

The BOSTON AMERICAN offers prizes consisting of a first prize of $10, a second prize of $5 and five prizes of $1 each, for the best lists.

Can you name Boston's FORTY IMMORTALS—live ones?

The State Street Trust Company of this city has issued a very handsome brochure giving a list of Forty Immortals—men of the past whose achievements would entitle them to places in Boston's Hall of Fame—if Boston happened to have such a temple.

$20 in Cash Prizes.

Dead men are not nearly as good as live men, as everybody knows, and while the AMERICAN has no fault to find with the list prepared by the State Street Trust Company, this newspaper is much more interested in "live ones." For that reason readers of the AMERICAN are asked to submit the names of men now living in Boston or the metropolitan district whose achievements entitle them to places in a Hall of Fame that may or may not be built some of these days in this city.

For the best list of forty names the AMERICAN will pay $10. For the next best, $5, and for the next five best lists $1 for each list will be paid. Send letters to "Live Ones" Editor, the American, 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

Some Suggestions.

Following are some of the lists received to-day:

Getting Scannell's Goat.

"Live Ones" Editor:

I would include in the Hall of Fame.

District-Attorney Pelletier, that is ridding Boston of the faro gang.
John F. Fitzgerald, advocate of a Bigger, Better and Busier Boston.
Curtis Guild, Jr., for turning the light on the New Haven.
Colonel William A. Gaston, for introducing the subway to Bostonians.
B. F. Keith, the man that rid Tremont street of the surface cars.
James J. Storrow, who is striving to show what he can accomplish.
Thomas B. Fitzpatrick, associated with a society for a good cause, U. I. L.
I. B. Magrane, ardent believer of a busier city.
Joseph H. O'Neil, too honest to dabble with politics.
President William A. Bancroft, the working man's friend.
Ex-President Charles W. Eliot, his record speaks for itself.
Congressman Joseph O'Connell, champion of a bigger and better navy.
Chief John A. Mullen, preserver of property and valuables.
Eugene N. Foss, the wage-earners' champion.
John I. Taylor, the Czar of the baseball fans.
Judge Henry S. Dewey, one that has to be shown.
Alexander MacGregor, business man.
Eben D. Jordan, believer in beautifying Boston.
John Shepard, speedway favorite.
President Charles S. Mellen, a man with a rare set of brains.
Herbert Parker, famed as an orator.
Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, an ideal statesman.
Josiah Quincy, an honest politician.
Roger Scannell, of international fame.
Thomas W. Lawson, a broker that takes the public into his confidence.
Stephen O'Meara, a menace to evil doers.
Martin Lomasney, holder of the key to the political arena.
Louis Frothingham, an able statesman.

Walter Ballantyne, because of his faithfulness in city affairs.
Governor Eben S. Draper, because he was chosen by the voters.
James H. Vahey, a lawyer with a great future.
Lucius Tuttle, a kingpin in railroading.
General Charles Taylor, famed as a newspaper man.
Vice-President Timothy E. Byrnes, king of after-dinner speakers.
William L. Douglas, the king of the shoe industry.
Bernard J. Rothwell, head of an enterprising organization, Chamber of Commerce.
John A. Sullivan, Finance Commission reformer.
Ex-Mayor Thomas N. Hart, an advocate of faithful service.
Matthew Cummings, leader of an intelligent class of men.
Attorney-General Dana Malone, an enemy to the trusts.

MANAGER DONOVAN MAY DECIDE TO CUT RED SERIES

SPEED BOYS MAY CALL OFF THE RED SERIES

STANDING OF THE CLUBS.

	W.	L.	Tie
Red Sox	2	0	1
Cincinnati	0	2	1

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 19.—With such strenuous games as the Red Sox and Cincinnatis have had, especially the last one—the question arises, are these teams not overdoing it? Is it wise to allow the players to go at top speed thus early in the year? Will they not tire themselves out? Are the players not taking great chances of injuring themselves?

When Managers Donovan and Griffith decided to play fifteen straight games, beginning March 16, the arrangement looked all right, but wise observers fear the teams have taken on too big a contract.

Cy Young, the former Boston pitcher, who is a very careful and observing man, believes the teams will make a mistake if they fill out the series.

"It's too much to ask of players at this time of year," declared the veteran to-day. "And I believe if the managers had foreseen how hard their men would play they would not have arranged so many games. It is not too late to change. If I were Donovan and Griffith, I would not allow the teams to meet more than three times a week."

The old gentleman is doubtless right and the managers may yet come to see it in that light, but, up to date, neither man has made a suggestion to cut out any of the games.

The Red Sox are in much better shape than Cincinnati to stand the grind.

Red Sox in Better Shape.

They have four extra infielders, three good catchers, twelve pitchers and an extra outfielder. Donovan can play if he so desires, but Griffith, while he has plenty of pitchers and catchers, is shy of infielders and outfielders.

Griffith runs much greater risk than Donovan. He always was a driver, many of the Red Sox players believe he gives his men altogether too much work as it is. His hours for practice are longer than Donovan's, he would have his men out all the time if he could do so. He seems to forget that the Hot Springs baths tend to weaken the players. If they keep on going at top speed in these exhibition games and take their hard practice by themselves as well, many careful observers believe his team will be shot to pieces before the National League season opens.

The battles surely must be hot, when one of the Cincinnati players so far forgets himself as to push the umpire in the face as Bescher did yesterday when the official called him out on strikes. It was a perfect strike, as Catcher Madden of the Red Sox said. Madden's opinion was backed up by Jiggs Donahue, who was right back of the plate when the ball came over. There were two men on bases at the time. Bescher has been so swelled up by his record as a base stealer and by the praises the Cincinnati papers have been giving him that he seems to walk in a different atmosphere from that enjoyed by the other players. He wanted to bring three runners in, and when the umpire, a little two by four in size, called him out he so far forgot himself as to make a rush for the official and push his hands violently against the latter's map. Bescher was roundly hissed for his action and Manager Griffith promptly told him to leave the field and go back to the hotel.

Play Hard to Win.

The incident goes to show that the players are doing their utmost to win. It should be understood that the best of feeling prevails among the players of the two clubs. There is not the slightest hard feeling, but the desire to win comes out so strong that it is feared battles may in the end do more harm than good.

Manager Donovan says his best pitchers are begging for a chance to go in the box against the Reds. All hands want to play in every game. Sore as some of them are, they don't want to sit on the bench while there is so much going on in the field.

We get the Cincinnati papers here every day and it is curious to read how the Porktown war correspondents smear on the praise. A pitcher goes to the box for batting practice. He lobs up a ball as big as a balloon and the batter knocks it over the fence. Next morning the Cincinnati papers have half a column about the great batting eye of so and so. This sort of thing is handed every member of the team, so that in the course of a few days the players come to believe they are world beaters.

The Cincinnati papers have been noted for the fulsome praise they hand out during the Spring trips and every year the Porktown fans have been led to believe that the Reds will win the National League pennant. There is no half way business about it. It is laid on thick. It is carried to such an extent that it has become a joke all over the country for years. The Cincinnati club has been known to win more flags in the Winter than all the other clubs put together. No other team is given a chance.

The result of it all is that when the team starts off badly the Cincinnati fans desert it and spend their time rooting for the opponents.

Thoney in Bad Shape.

Jack Thoney is receiving the sincere sympathy of his fellow players. Thoney is one of the most popular men on the team and everybody was rooting hard for him to regain his old-time form. Thoney dislocated his shoulder in practice yesterday and is now carrying his arm in a sling. It was a repetition of the accident that befell him three years ago in Toronto before he joined the Red Sox. Thoney says he will be able to throw a ball in a week, but Dr. Grear of Cincinnati, who put Thoney's arm back in its socket, shakes his head and fears the player will never be able to do much with it again.

Thoney has cost the Boston club about $15,000 so far and it has not received more than a fraction of this amount back in exchange. What the club will do with "Bullet" Jack Thoney is not known. Manager Donovan will await developments.

Jeffries Won His First Fight at a Picnic---By Tad

PUT ON YOUR OLD GRAY BONNET

JEFF ACCIDENTALLY BUMPED THE GENT AT THE PICNIC DANCE THAT WAS THE START OF HIS FIRST FIGHT.

JEFF THEN TOOK THE COLORED FELLOW OVER BY THE TREES IN THE PICNIC GROUND AND THEY FOUGHT IT OUT

TRAINING CAMP NOTES.

Bescher, who assaulted Umpire Cleary yesterday, was once arrested and fined $25 for hitting an official at Dayton, where he used to play. The fans raised the amount and paid the fine for him.

Niles was the hero of the tie game. He made two of the sweetest catches ever seen in right field.

Harry says the position is very hard to play at Majestic Park on account of the tall pine trees on the background.

Downey slit his finger stopping a grounder, but the trainer patched it up and the player will not be out of the game.

Our boys are muffing lots of throws to second and the result is the Cincinnatis are getting away with a lot of stolen bases.

Karger was against his old pals when he faced the Reds at the opening of the game. The other fellows expected to fill the sacks with passes, but Eddie issued no transportation and the Reds were forced to hit the ball. He made them look foolish most of the time, but they managed to get in four hits in five innings.

The Cincinnati players were grieved to learn of the death of Alan Storke, the Harvard student. Storke was expected to report on April 1. His death is a severe blow to the team's prospects.

With the arrival of Tris Speaker, the Red Squad is complete. It is a happy training camp. Speaker is not in condition, but will work hard from now on.

Lord had a swell chance to win the tie game, but only popped an infield fly.

Lewis continues to be the candy kid in the field, but has fallen off in batting.

WOLGAST SAYS MORAN IS EASY

KANSAS CITY, March 19.—In the absence of his manager Tom Jones, who went to St. Joseph to-day, "Ad" Wolgast, the new lightweight champion took occasion to make a few remarks.

"I expect to fight early in June," Wolgast said, "and my next fight won't be with Battling Nelson. Its going to be with Owen Moran and before Tom McCarey's Club in Los Angeles. Nelson wants another go with me, but he'd better let bad enough alone. He's better hike down to that new Mexico ranch of his, kidding himself that the reason he lost was because he went into the fight over-trained. He won't have such a good alibi next time I whip him.

"When I put Moran out of the running, which will be a cinch for me, I'll give some of the other bums a chance."

BOWLING ALLEY GOSSIP

Dutch Poehler is rapidly getting back in his old-time form. The other day at the Somerset he rolled 1,094 for ten strings and then rolled 146 to show he had not gone stale.

* * *

Oh you Blondy Dan! What made you roll over 320 the last time? See if you can do it again.

* * *

Joe Spillane certainly had tough breaks the other night. Better try a new ball, Joe.

* * *

Martel is there with bells on when he rolls for Chelsea Square. We do not see his average in the papers, but it must be close to 103. Galway and Poehler roll on the same team.

* * *

Hallas of Adams Square hit the pins for 109, 106, 163, 378, which is four pins under the world's record. Hallas' single of 163 is a world's record in competition. Jack Taylor held the record for five years with 161.

* * *

Mark Gill, that splash ball of yours is a wonder. You are beating Christopher to a frazzle every game you roll.

* * *

It was certainly some beating that Noddle gave the Buick team. The Noddle team is one hard crowd to beat on their own alleys, and they should be higher up in the standing than they are.

DONAHUE GETS RAW DECISION OVER MURPHY

BROCKTON, March 19.—Eddie Murphy, the hard hitting South Boston scrapper, put it all over Young Donahue, the Roxbury lightweight, in their twelve-round mill contest at the Young Men's Social and Athletic Club, but the decision was awarded to Donahue by Referee Ward.

There was an uproar when Ward announced his verdict and the fans around the ring climbed over the ropes threatening him bodily violence and he narrowly escaped from being mobbed by the infuriated friends of the South Boston boxer.

It was a clear case of Murphy being robbed of the award and one of the worst decisions ever seen here in a ring and will be a bad blow to the boxing game as the fans were disgusted with such an unfair ruling.

Donahue was a sight when he left the ring. His eyes were closed and his face puffed up from the mauling he received at the hands of Murphy and in the final round he was about all in and hanging on to stay the limit.

The very worst Murphy could have got was a draw and when referee Ward failed to give him that much the ringsiders were stunned.

Belfield Walcott won over Joe Kelley in five rounds, the men being listed to travel eight. Kelley was so badly dazed that the bout was stopped.

Tom Anderson of South Boston put away Young Leahan of this city in five rounds.

NATICK HORSE GOES TO N. Y.

Lookout Farm, Natick, has made arrangements with M. A. De Witt, Binghamton, N. Y., to place the stallion, The Lookout, brother to Bingen (2:06¼), in the stud at his New York farm.

In placing this stallion there Lookout Farm has not weakened their own farm, as they have in the young stallion, Golden Result, another full brother to Bingen, a horse worthy to take the place of either stallion.

While they are not yet old enough to have publicly demonstrated their worth the get of Golden Result are a very likely lot of youngsters, and promise to add new credit to their family.

HORSE NOTES WINTER CHAT

Francis Parker of Bedford has a fine colt by Aquilin (2:19¾), out of Jolly Bird (2:15¼), the dam of Codero (2:09¾).

* * *

Evangeline Rex (2:19¼), owned by Lester Brooks of Manchester, is the champion snow horse in New Hampshire.

* * *

Fred Clarke, the Providence trainer, expects to get to the races with quite a stable. Besides Grattan Bey, Jr., and Burma Girl, he has a lot of well-bred youngsters.

* * *

Red Elm (2:16¼), the half-brother of Audubon Boy and Royal R. Sheldon, who took his record more than a dozen years ago, is pacing quarters in 35 seconds on the snow up in Vermont.

* * *

The racing on the Charles River Speedway is to be made more interesting for the spectators this Spring. Delays at the score will be done away with, and races are to be run off on schedule time.

* * *

Dreamwold is getting back into the running, having two stallions standing for public service, The Peer (2:15¾) and Dreamwold Kinney. The latter is a grand-looking four-year-old by McKinney (2:11¼), out of Dainty Daffo (2:13¼).

* * *

Fred Garmon, president of the Metropolitan Driving Club, has bought Forest Bingen for racing on the Charles River Speedway.

* * *

C. O. Montgomery of Camden, Me., has what is believed to be the making of a fast trotter in the two-year-old colt Bingen Be Sure, by Bingen, out of Bessie Be Sure, 2:16¼.

* * *

There is a strong demand among horsemen in the East for the opening of a greater number of early closing trotting and pacing stakes upon the half-mile tracks. These popular races of old days seem to be getting scarcer and scarcer, and the boys are well within their rights in asking for more of these guaranteed stakes.

* * *

Billy Croft, of the Fellsway Driving Club, thinks the organization is in need of another trotter or two for the interclub races, and is contemplating a trip down in Maine with "Doc" King to look for something good with a brush. Nothing in the Pine Tree State should escape the vigilant eyes of these boys.

Life and Battles of Jim Jeffries—No. 3

By TAD.

While working at his trade as a boiler-maker Jim Jeffries was steadily accumulating the muscle that was in after years to make him the greatest fighter the world has ever known. With every rivet he clinched he added to his strength, and with every day of hard work increased the size and power of his muscles. Handling a heavy sledge, too, broadened his hands, though Nature had well endowed him with a pair of mauleys, and good, clean living built upon the foundation of a splendid physique an edifice that, properly cared for, could be withstood by no man.

Jeffries stuck to his trade for several years, and would probably to-day be still wielding the hammer had it not accidentally been discovered that he was a great fighter. This fact was not at once proved to the world, but friends of the future champion thought he would some day amount to a lot in the pugilistic game if he could be induced to embark in it with the same faithfulness that he kept at his trade. The ring and its possibilities had no charms for the big fellow. He never for a moment allowed himself to believe that he was a fighter, and to his great strength and hardiness attributed his first success.

Well, to get down to the facts of the first fight of any account that Jeffries took part in. Here they are:

A picnic at which the boilermakers turned out strong was held at Los Angeles when Jeffries was about twenty years old. He went to the affair, and while dancing was bumped into by another couple. Although the big fellow apologized for any fault on his part, there was an argument, and the upshot of the whole talk was that Jeffries had to fight. A big negro was picked out as the man Jeffries had to beat. To preserve the proprieties the men agreed to wait until after the crowd had left the park and then get to work.

The wait before the time came for him to fight preyed not at all upon big Jim Jeffries. Seemingly, he gave the fight no thought, and this was not because he knew he had a cinch, for the colored man was a rough-and-tumble fighter of local reputation and a man to be feared greatly by any one who knew as little about real fighting as Jeffries did at that time. The champion-to-be went on about his business, danced as gleefully as ever, at the supper that followed the dancing did full justice to a spread that no fighter would even be allowed to look at if one of his trainers happened to be around.

After the last of the women had left and but few of the men were in the grounds, Jeffries and the colored man were told to get ready. An equal number of friends of each man were allowed to see the contest. It was decided that there would be no referee, the general opinion being that the men should fight until one of them was knocked out or quit. Seconds were chosen and the fighters told to strip. Jeffries peeled off his coat, took off his collar and announced himself in readiness for the fray. The colored man had begun to strip, but, with his reputation as a fighter at stake, refused to peel any more clothes than his opponent, and after rolling up their sleeves the men were ready to start. Just as the word was to be given the timekeeper, chosen by mutual consent, suggested that they wear gloves, and a couple of pairs of driving gloves were found for use on their fists. After these were donned the fight began.

Pugilistic history lost the account of a great battle when no scribe at the ringside took down the happenings when Jeffries and his colored opponent (even the name of this fellow is lost) met in what was the first real fight of the undefeated heavyweight champion of the world. The fight was probably the hardest Jeffries ever had. His opponent was tough, strong and knew more about fighting than the "Big Fellow." But in the end the heart of Jeffries won out. He was cut up, hammered unmercifully about the body, but even when the tide of battle seemed to be all against him he kept plugging along, and finally the condition that comes from clean living, hard work and good blood told. In the fourteenth round the seconds of the colored man announced that their man was beaten, and the fight was over.

Jeffries walked away, wiping the blood from his face, pulled down his sleeves, threw his coat over his arm and called to his friends to come along.

That is the story of Jeffries's first battle, told as well as it is possible to tell it after this lapse of time. He won, and after that battle began to take up boxing seriously—not with the idea of entering the ring, but so as to be able to defend himself should the occasion ever arise again.

(To be Continued).

Boxing News in Brief Form

This Leo Houck from Philadelphia would be a good boy to show to Boston boxing fans. He has been mowing them all down in and around Philadelphia.

* * *

The card at the Armory for next Tuesday night comprises four bouts. Three of them will be full of the rough stuff and the fourth will be about as fine a contest from a scientific standpoint as could be served to the boxing fans of New England. Both O'Keefe and Bronson are high class performers. They are popular in this city. There is big interest in the outcome, as opinions are evenly divided, and a brilliant future stares the winner in the eye.

* * *

That Klaus-Ketchell thing has finally been settled on. They will cross arms next Wednesday in Pittsburg. It should be a cracking good mill to witness. Any time either of these two climb into a ring you are bound to see something good.

* * *

Jimmy Moriarty, the new Lowell welterweight, is very popular up-State. Most everybody in and around Lowell, who cares a bit for boxing, is making preparations to be at the Armory next Tuesday night, when their favorite tackles Honey Mellody. The bout this team put up in Lawrence recently was pronounced the best ever. They say it was one of those see saw things, where the tide turned one way then the other.

* * *

Montana Jack Sullivan, who recently met Andrew Morris at the Armory A. A., left Boston yesterday for the West. The boy from the wild and woolley is rather an intelligent chap. While here he looked around at the historical points and was quite well pleased with the city. He also took a peep at the hills in New Hampshire. He has relatives up there that he had not seen in years, and paid them a visit. Sullivan is a clever chap and is welcome back in Beantown any old time at all.

* * *

Tommy O'Keefe is due in town Sunday. He will work out in the Armory A. A. gym on Sunday afternoon from 3 to 4. This work out will be for the pleasure of the members and their friends who would like to see a boxer go through his gym work.

* * *

Frank Picato, the Los Angeles Italian, who arrived in Boston this week, is a husky looking gent. He recently defeated Dave Deshler and Freddie Corbett at New Orleans. He also gave a good account of himself in Los Angeles, where he met Ad Wolgast and George Memsic. His manager, Rawhide Kelly, is ready to send him against the best lightweights in the East.

* * *

That Max Landy-Young Dyson bout at the Armory A. A. next Tuesday night should be the real jammy goods. Both are 300 hitters. It is listed for eight rounds, and while it may look like one of those short and sweet affairs, through Landy having been slipping them over with great regularity, yet Mr. Dyson is some slipper himself.

* * *

Oh where, oh where, is Jimmy Gardner? Here is a boy good enough to tackle anything that walks up to 158 pounds. Still he seems to be rather inactive. There are plenty of boys in the game that Jimmy could tackle and he ought to keep himself busy.

* * *

They say that Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, woke up St. Patrick's day feeling like a peacock. During the afternoon he met a gent named Samuel Langford. And Oi, Oi, such a headache.

* * *

Jack Twin Sullivan is taking a much needed rest. Jack says he will be ready to take on the best of them.

* * *

Matty Baldwin did not do so well against Dick Hyland as the dopesters expected he would. They had Matty picked to win by a juicy margin.

* * *

If Oscar Martin is as good as his big brother Terry claims he is, Eddie Shevlin will have to step some to win next Tuesday night. Terry says that Oscar is better than he was when he first showed hereabouts. This bout holds big interest. State street is deeply interested in Eddie, while Manchester and Lowell fans are all wrapped up in Oscar.

* * *

Porky Flynn has been matched to meet Big Jim Savage at the National Club of New York, April 4.

* * *

Billy Nixon of Cambridge has been laying up with a sore hand for the past ten days. He will be ready any time now to lean his trusty right against anybody's chin.

* * *

Wolgast hasn't yet answered the challenge [illegible] Cross, [illegible] New York dentist. The Wildcat seems to be giving up all his spare time to admiring the crown he copped from Nelson, and little things like making more matches get away from him. The chances are that he will not fight again for a long, long time. There is a crop of easy coin to be harvested first.

Bat Nelson was given a great reception on his return home from his Waterloo. Although badly banged up about the face the Dane was able to smile with gratification when he found his old friends had not left him. He still has the idea that he can beat Wolgast, and will try to prove this soon.

* * *

Eddie Carr's performance the other night was so well liked in New York that he will probably get another chance to show his worth within the next two weeks. His manager, Joe McCarthy, says that Eddie practically got off a tipcart to meet K. O. Brown, and that if he had had a week's training there would have been no need of the men going ten rounds.

Sam Harris of the Eureka A. C., Baltimore, has offered to stage the Cross-Goodman bout, on which the boys are to wager a heap of coin. He will put it on for twenty rounds next month, when the horses are running at Pimlico. Wallach wants the club to make an offer of a purse, and if it is large enough he will accept it. There will be nothing doing in Baltimore on a percentage basis though.

NEWPORT RESERVES TACKLE WHITE SOX

The basketball fans that cannot stand plenty of excitement and rooting should not attend the game to-night at Institute Hall, East Cambridge, between the Newport Naval Reserves and the Cambridge White Sox. This is the third and deciding game of a series, and the fans who were fortunate enough to see the last game in Cambridge will never forget the grand finish made by the Sox, winning the game in the last minute of play.

The Cambridge White Sox have been trying to secure the services of a star from the Pennsylvania League, and the Sox followers might get a peek at him to-night.

LANGFORD IS OUT WITH DEFI TO JACK JOHNSON

LAKE'S MEN DO LIVELY WORK IN PRACTICE

reported in superfine shape. He has been playing ball at Ormonde, Fla., for some time and could go in and pitch a game through this afternoon. "Why, Mr. Man," said Peaches Graham to Lew, "but where did you get all that steam?" The way Richie burned the ball over the plate when he made his debut here certainly called for comment. But Richie served a straight ball only.

Some Natural Hitters.

Sweeney and Shean are getting so they can whip the ball around a little faster, but neither can throw any to speak of yet and therefore there is no lightning work in handling the sphere around the sacks, but it gets propelled with comet velocity across the diamond. Beck, Getz and Cooney are there with the throw already, and that is true, too, of the catchers. The Raridan kid shapes up like a find and with experience may make a very classy backstop. He can line the ball down to second in great style and is a very quick youngster in other respects. He is twenty years old and a well built, bright and tractable boy. Peaches Graham is showing more speed as a sprinter than at any time since Joe Kelley brought him from the Northwest to play ball in Boston. He is four or five pounds lighter now than when the season closed last Autumn. Harry Smith is also well down in weight and as full of pepper as a two-year-old. The team is pretty well off as far as catchers are concerned, but with Smith and Graham in present form young Rariden is not likely to get much chance to show his pace this season.

The Boston fans who go to the Columbus avenue grounds this year will see two new Doves flying around the outfield. They are J. Herbert Moran and Fred Liese. Moran is a little fellow who played with Hugh Duffy in Providence last year, and he is about as speedy as any lad who graduates from the Eastern League this Spring. He makes a fast start in getting away from a sack and is not afraid to hit the dirt at full speed ahead. He also acts as if he could sting the ball some. Liese came from the St. Paul club. "I never saw him play," said Graham, who is from Minneapolis, "but people up there who are good judges tell me he is a great ball player and a sure comer."

Liese is Fast.

Liese is of medium height and spare in build. He runs like a scared antelope and in practice hitting has walloped the ball over the garden. Beals Becker is the third of regulars for the outfield. He looks better this Spring than he ever did and says he expects to be more consistent in his stickwork than he was last year. If this trio do well at the bat this season Lake will have an outfield that ought to please the public.

The Doves have got Leon Martel by a deal with the Scranton club. He is a catcher who was a first-sacker when he played on the Georgetown University team, and is expected to report at the training camp on Monday. He was signed last year by Philadelphia, but let go when the Phillies changed ownership. He was born in South Boston.

Almost everybody in Boston reads the AMERICAN.

A. M. HOWE, VETERAN HORSEMAN, IS DEAD

MEMPHIS, March 19.—A. M. Howe, one of the best known trotting horsemen of the old school, and superintendent of the Billings Park track since it was built, is dead of heart failure.

He was perhaps one of the oldest men in the country. In former days he was connected with such veterans as Doble, Monroe Salisbury and others.

The deceased was the father of Murray Howe, at one time secretary of the Memphis track, and also widely known some years ago as a favorable writer on harness turf topics.

MIKE KEEPS 'EM GUESSING ON PLAYING BALL

It certainly looks like Mike Donlin, star right fielder of the New York Giants of two seasons ago, would hark to the call of the diamond if John T. Brush and Johnny McGraw, the two bosses of the New York Club, would come across with the right amount of the stuff you buy things with.

Mike and his wife, Mabel Hite, begin an engagement Monday at the Majestic Theatre in a farce called "A Certain Party." They arrived here several days ahead of the scheduled time for their opening, coming from Toronto.

But getting back to the part that all the baseball bugs of the country want to hear about and that is, whether or not the once great and only Michael will sport a Giant uniform during the coming season. Mike put the crusher on all this talk about him playing ball this year by sending a reply to John T. Brush's telegram asking Mike to consider the matter once more, in which Donlin stated that he would stay on the stage.

Salary Stands in Way.

Notwithstanding all his talk about wanting to stay with his wife, making good money on the boards and such like, it didn't require a heavy pair of glasses to see that he would go back to the National game. The only thing that seems to be in the way is, the salary arrangement with Brush.

Donlin seemed a bit inconsistent. In one breath he said that he wouldn't leave the stage and in the next he said that he would gladly help the Giants, by playing in the Summer months when he wasn't on the stage. His words were, "for then it wouldn't be a question of money." Now just what Mike meant by the question of money is problematic. He might have meant that there wouldn't be any money coming in from his theatrical engagements and then he would be glad to get into the fray with the Giants. Then again he might have meant that it was a question of money now that keeps him from being down South with the New York Club getting ready for a star game this season. As aforesaid it certainly does look like Mike Donlin way down in his heart wants to go back to the National game.

Talk Mike Gives.

Here's the talk that Mike gives as his reason for staying on the stage: "I don't want to leave my wife. Just now she has attained what all actresses want, a leading part in a good play, and I think that if I would go back to the game, she wouldn't want to stay on the road. We have been together all the time since we were married and I'm not going to break the partnership. So I guess I'll be the glue kid and stick. I'm making just as much money on the boards as I did with the Giants, and at a great deal less labor. I have no sentimental feeling for the Giants, although I'd like to see them win. They treated me just like they would any star player so I won't let that feeling cut in on the matter at all."

All that talk sounds pretty much like Mike wants to stay on the stage, but then he says, pulling one of his best smiles, that he still "thinks he has a few more good years of baseball in him." Donlin said that if he did make any deals with the baseball club and quit the stage, he didn't think that he would have any trouble with the Liebler Company, to which he is under contract. He says he has been making good with his stunt in vaudeville and he thinks they will have the same success in the farce which they open Monday. Donlin states that he doesn't try to force himself on the public, on account of being a baseball star, but he wants to be taken just as an ordinary actor trying to make his living amusing the people.

BIG FIGHT CLUB FOR PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.—What is considered the first move toward the erection and establishment of a large arena to stage boxing bouts in this city was made public when the following notice appeared in a real estate paper:

"Lot of ground, 105 by 100, on north side of Market street, forty-three feet west of Thirty-ninth street, bought by Jack O'Brien from P. F. Kerman, trustee of the McCann estate, fo $32,500, subject to irredeemable annual ground rent of $150. Will build large sporting club."

LITTLE M'KINNON TO CHEER PAPA ON

Bill McKinnon, the Roxbury middleweight, who has been in hard luck lately, his house being robbed and he being hit in the back of the neck with a big plank, says that his hoodoo has surely passed. Last night a seven-pound boy became a member of the McKinnon family. Bill is still laid up by the accident of a week ago with a nervous shock, and it will be some time before he will get around to his old form.

SULLIVANS HOLD OFFICE.

Marliave's Outing Club was organized last night with the following list of officers: John Carcioffo, president; Jack Twin Sullivan, vice-president; Aleck Sullivan, secretary, Charles Donovan, recording-secretary, and Mike Twin Sullivan, treasurer. They will play ball the coming season and intend organizing a bowling team in the Fall.

STRAIGHT DOPE FOR SPORT FANS

IF GENE CONDON'S FIGHT CLUB AT Brockton hopes to prosper, they will have to can Referee Frank Ward and hire a judge who knows some of the rudiments of the fight game. I may be mistaken in thinking that Ward doesn't know and I hope I am. If he does know the game there is something else wrong, which is a lot worse than ignorance. I was not at the bouts last night, but I had a representative there, and the information that came to me and which I know is right, is that Eddie Murphy gave Young Donohue one of the worst beatings he has received in his checkered career. Murphy should have had the decision by at least a mile and a half, but this Ward person, for reasons best known to himself, called Donohue the winner. This is the second raw decision Ward has given between these boys and, for the benefit of the game, it is to be hoped that the club will pay him off and send him on his way.

FRANK PICATO, THE CALIFORNIA lightweight who has given Ad Wolgast two of the toughest ten round no-decision battles the now champion ever went up against, is in Boston looking for work. Picato and his manager will go to New York to-day to try and get hooked up with Harlem Tommy Murphy, the youngster whose fight with Owen Moran has caused the New Yorkers to think he is a real fighter. They will be back here in time for the bouts at the Armory Tuesday night, and Picato will challenge the winner of the O'Keefe-Bronson bout. Another's a tip. Boston boxing fans have read a great deal about this Picato boy, and a match between him and the winner of Tuesday's bout, would make one a whole lot of sports would like to see.

AND BY THE WAY, PICATO'S MANAger is "Rawhide" Kelley. Now "Rawhide" is an unknown quantity here in the East, but he's not half as bad as his name might lead you to believe. I say this without ever having seen him riled also with no intention of riling the gentleman' but I've been looking up a little dope on him. Out on the coast he is one of the most popular men in the game, and they say he is so square that his corners rasp you when you butt into him. At least, this is Beanie Walker's dope, and what Beanie says runs for my money. So it's welcome to our fair city, Rawhide.

THE MAN WHO CAN KEEP TAB ON these ever changing billiard and pool championships is entitled to all he gets out of it. Here's the latest dope which may help you keep your book straight. Willie Hoppe won the billiard championship from George Sutton in St. Louis the other night, and the same night Tommy Hueston won the world's billiard championship from Fred Eames in Denver. Do you get it? Both now hold the title. One is at 18.1 balk line and the other at three cushion, but can you tell which is which. I can't without looking back at the files.

IT LOOKS TO ME AS IF SOMEONE had put their kidding scenery on before they sprung this one, but I'm going to print it anyway, just to see what comes of it. I haven't heard of Harry Edels getting back into the game and I really think he would do better sticking to his present job.

Boston, March 16, 1910.
Straight Dope, Boston American:

We, the undersigned, are members of the Armory A. A., and there is a rumor around that Harry Edels is going to re-enter the ring. As he was one of the best welterweights around here a couple of years ago, we would all like to see him go. Every good fight he has been in has been out of town and we have not had a chance to see him. He has fought Harry Lewis, Terry Martin, Charlie Sieger, Arthur Cote, Dave Deshler, Jimmy Briggs, Larry Conley, Billy Burke, Bartley Conley and several other good welters. Now, why don't Johnny Mooney put him on so we members of the Armory A. A. can see him in? Hoping to see this in your valuable column, we remain,

Yours,
HARRY SIMMONS,
LOUIE JACOBS,
SAM DREW.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Please print this challenge in your column. "Kid" John Powers of Cambridge would like to meet any 115-pound boy in the State. Ben Thomas or Young Smyth preferred.

TIMOTHY FORD, Manager.
190 Prospect street, Cambridge, Mass.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

I should be greatly obliged if you would state in your column how old Ty Cobb of Detroit is. Sincerely,

ANXIOUS TO KNOW.

Cambridge.

According to the best dope I can get on Tyrus he is twenty-three years of age.

BALDWIN HAS SOME TOUGH BOUTS AHEAD

Matty Baldwin and his manager Aleck McLean who went to Kansas City last week, will not return to Boston for several weeks, as Baldwin has several matches on. Baldwin is booked to box Grover Hayes or Tommy Devlin in New Orleans, March 22, and Leonard Lauder in the same city March 26. After those bouts Baldwin will go to New York to fill several engagements. Manager McLean had offers for Baldwin to box in Sheridan, Wyo., and again in Kansas City, but he declined them.

YANKEE CRICKETERS WIN.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 19.—The Philadelphia cricketers won a game from a team made up of members of the army and navy by a net score of 84. The Americans in their first innings scored 176 and in the second 100, while the local players in their first innings made 107 runs and in the second 85.

YOUR EASTER SUIT WILL BE READY—

Several new customers seemed to be afraid that we wouldn't have their clothes all ready for Easter. Our regular patrons know that we always have everything ready on time—as promised.

You see, we have been 13 years in business and have built up a system of designing, cutting, making, fitting and finishing our goods that not only cuts out all wastefulness in cost, but enables us to follow a schedule as exact as a good railroad.

You keep your appointment with us for the fitting and you can depend upon us to be on time with the finished clothes when you call for them.

You are pretty familiar with Gale & Kent methods, if you have been following our advertising—still it won't harm anybody to repeat a good statement. We will make you a suit of clothes (or overcoat) from the finest and biggest line of new goods-in-the-piece to be found in any tailor shop in Boston for $15 to $25.

The clothes will be absolutely perfect in fit and style and the wear and workmanship will be guaranteed absolutely. You will not get an $80 suit of clothes or an overcoat that some Boston tailors sell to their best customers at $75 to $90. A statement to that effect would stamp us as unreliable before you ever came into our shop.

But you will get a suit (or overcoat) that no ready-made house in the city can duplicate at any price and no other tailor in Boston can equal within $15 more for suit or overcoat.

Every coat built at our shop is patterned after our famous design of "The-front-that-won't-break-down." This design is registered at the State House as our exclusive trade mark and no other tailor in America can even use the expression, legally. Call day or evening—open till 10 tonight. Any order booked today will be delivered for Easter, which comes a week from tomorrow.

LANGFORD BARS ONLY JEFF IN JOHNSON DEFI

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 19.—Following the fight here in which Sam Langford defeated Jim Flynn in the eighth round, Flynn went immediately to the baths from the arena and is unable or unwilling to make any statement regarding the fight. Langford said to-day:

"I was in better condition than for any fight in the last year and never was worried. I found that I could break through Flynn's cover and believe that I gave him the worst beating any fighter has taken in months. I am ready now to take on any fighter in the world, except Jeffries. I will fight Johnson after he is through with his fight with Jeffries, win, lose or draw, and bet him $10,000 on the side."

Langford and Flynn each received $5,745 for their fight at Vernon, Cal., Thursday. The gross receipts were $19,150.

TUFTS PLAYERS PRACTICE.

The Tufts baseball squad put in another afternoon in the Goddard gymnasium cage, Coach Robinson giving the men a two hours' batting drill. To-day another practice game is scheduled.

JOHNSON TRAINS EARLIER

CHICAGO, March 19.—Jack Johnson, being notified by Jack Gleason that the contest with Jeffries will be staged at Emeryville on July 4, decided to begin training in San Francisco early in April and not wait until May as he had intended. Johnson's trial on a charge of assault comes up in New York on March 23.

JOE THEEL IN DRAW BOUT.

READING, Pa., March 19.—Joe Theel of Philadelphia and Adolphe fought a ten-round draw here at the opening show tonight of the Douglass A. C. Adolphe had the better of the first five rounds, but Theel came back strong and the Frenchman was groggy at the close. The latter's vicious jabs swung wide through Theel's clever defence.

What is "Joe" Cannon? And Why?

Alfred Henry Lewis has answers to both of these questions in the April COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, now on all news-stands—answers that will bite into your consciousness unforgettably with the acid of truth.

The whole sinister and subterranean meaning of Cannon and Cannonism is here laid bare with the swift, keen, scalpel-like strokes of a master of character analysis and incisive literary style.

"Slim, sinuous, supple, fierce in a little way, capable of entering a smallest hole and if needs press turning 'round in it, Mr. Cannon is essentially the weasel.*He can suck the yolk from the egg of popular advantage, and then hide the shell.*By shady sleight and dubious intrigue he has served his trust masters by suppressing House attacks and House investigations. Thus he is serving them as this is read."

Concerning Mr. Cannon's recent words, so heavy with significance, "If Mr. La Follette and Mr. Cummings are Republicans, then I am not," Mr. Lewis makes this disquieting declaration and prophecy: "They had been talked over and consented to by every trust in the land. They promise new parties, new issues, new lines. The war will be Income Tax against Tariff, Man against Money, West against East."

Among other features are: "THE CRIME OF OUR VANISHED SHIPS," by Lewis Nixon; "WHAT IS TO BECOME OF YOUR BABY?" by G. Stanley Hall; "MEXICO TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW," by Otheman Stevens; "THE ONLY OPERA OCTOPUS," by Pierre Van Rensselaer Key; stories by E. Phillips Oppenheim, Bruno Lessing, Roy Norton, Mary White Slater, etc.

MIKE KEEPS 'EM GUESSING ON PLAYING BALL

It certainly looks like Mike Donlin, star right fielder of the New York Giants of two seasons ago, would hark to the call of the diamond if John T. Brush and Johnny McGraw, the two bosses of the New York Club, would come across with the right amount of the stuff you buy things with.

Mike and his wife, Mabel Hite, begin an engagement Monday at the Majestic Theatre in a farce called "A Certain Party." They arrived here several days ahead of the scheduled time for their opening, coming from Toronto.

But getting back to the part that all the baseball bugs of the country want to hear about and that is, whether or not the once great and only Michael will sport a Giant uniform during the coming season. Mike put the crusher on all this talk about him playing ball this year by sending a reply to John T. Brush's telegram asking Mike to consider the matter once more, in which Donlin stated that he would stay on the stage.

Salary Stands in Way.

Notwithstanding all his talk about wanting to stay with his wife, making good money on the boards and such like, it didn't require a heavy pair of glasses to see that he would go back to the National game. The only thing that seems to be in the way is, the salary arrangement with Brush.

Donlin seemed a bit inconsistent. In one breath he said that he wouldn't leave the stage and in the next he said that he would gladly help the Giants, by playing in the Summer months when he wasn't on the stage. His words were, "for then it wouldn't be a question of money." Now just what Mike meant by the question of money is problematic. He might have meant that there wouldn't be any money coming in from his theatrical engagements and then he would be glad to get into the fray with the Giants. Then again he might have meant that it was a question of money now that keeps him from being down South with the New York Club getting ready for a star game this season. As aforesaid it certainly does look like Mike Donlin way down in his heart wants to go back to the National game.

Talk Mike Gives.

Here's the talk that Mike gives as his reason for staying on the stage: "I don't want to leave my wife. Just now she has attained what all actresses want, a leading part in a good play, and I think that if I would go back to the game, she wouldn't want to stay on the road. We have been together all the time since we were married and I'm not going to break the partnership. So I guess I'll be the glue kid and stick. I'm making just as much money on the boards as I did with the Giants, and at a great deal less labor. I have no sentimental feeling for the Giants, although I'd like to see them win. They treated me just like they would any star player so I won't let that feeling cut in on the matter at all."

All that talk sounds pretty much like Mike wants to stay on the stage, but then he says, pulling one of his best smiles, that he still "thinks he has a few more good years of baseball in him." Donlin said that if he did make any deals with the baseball club and quit the stage, he didn't think that he would have any trouble with the Liebler Company, to which he is under contract. He says he has been making good with his stunt in vaudeville and he thinks they will have the same success in the farce which they open Monday. Donlin states that he doesn't try to force himself on the public, on account of being a baseball star, but he wants to be taken just as an ordinary actor trying to make his living amusing the people.

BIG FIGHT CLUB FOR PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.—What is considered the first move toward the erection and establishment of a large arena to stage boxing bouts in this city was made public when the following notice appeared in a real estate paper:

"Lot of ground, 105 by 190, on north side of Market street, forty-three feet west of Thirty-ninth street, bought by Jack O'Brien from P. F. Kerman, trustee of the McCann estate, for $32,500, subject to irredeemable annual ground rent of $150. Will build large sporting club."

LITTLE M'KINNON TO CHEER PAPA ON

Bill McKinnon, the Roxbury middleweight, who has been in hard luck lately, his house being robbed and he being hit in the back of the neck with a big plank, says that his hoodoo has surely passed. Last night a seven-pound boy became a member of the McKinnon family. Bill is still laid up by the accident of a week ago with a nervous shock, and it will be some time before he will get around to his old form.

SULLIVANS HOLD OFFICE.

Marliave's Outing Club was organized last night with the following list of officers: John Carcioffo, president; Jack Twin Sullivan, vice-president; Aleck Sullivan, secretary, Charles Donovan, recording-secretary, and Mike Twin Sullivan, treasurer. They will play ball the coming season and intend organizing a bowling team in the Fall.

STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

IF GENE CONDON'S FIGHT CLUB AT Brockton hopes to prosper they will have to can Referee Frank Ward and hire a judge who knows some of the rudiments of the fight game. I may be mistaken in thinking that Ward doesn't know and I hope I am. If he does know the game there is something else wrong, which is a lot worse than ignorance. I was not at the bouts last night, but I had a representative there, and the information that came to me, and which I know is right, is that Eddie Murphy gave Young Donohue one of the worst beatings he has received in his checkered career. Murphy should have had the decision by at least a mile and a half, but this Ward person, for reasons best known to himself, called Donohue the winner. This is the second raw decision Ward has given between these boys and, for the benefit of the game, it is to be hoped that the club will pay him off and send him on his way.

FRANK PICATO, THE CALIFORNIA lightweight who has given Ad Wolgast two of the toughest ten round no-decision battles the new champion ever went up against, is in Boston looking for work. Picato and his manager will go to New York today to try and get hooked up with Harlem Tommy Murphy, the youngster whose fight with Owen Moran has caused the New Yorkers to think he is a real fighter. They will be back here in time for the bouts at the Armory Tuesday night, and Picato will challenge the winner of the O'Keefe-Bronson bout. Another's a tip. Boston boxing fans have read a great deal about this Picato boy, and a match between him and the winner of Tuesday's bout, would make one a whole lot of sports would like to see.

AND BY THE WAY, PICATO'S MANAGER is "Rawhide" Kelley. Now "Rawhide" is an unknown quantity here in the East, but he's not half as bad as his name might lead you to believe. I say this without ever having seen him riled also with no intention of riling the gentleman; but I've been looking up a little dope on him. Out on the coast he is one of the most popular men in the game, and they say he is so square that his corners rasp you when you butt into him. At least, this is Bennie Walker's dope, and what Bennie says runs for my money. So it's welcome to our fair city, Rawhide.

THE MAN WHO CAN KEEP TAB ON these ever changing billiard and pool championships is entitled to all he gets out of it. Here's the latest dope which may help you keep your book straight. Willie Hoppe won the billiard championship from George Sutton in St. Louis the other night, and the same night Tommy Hueston won the world's billiard championship from Fred Eames in Denver. Do you get it? Both now hold the title. One is at 18-1 balk line and the other at three cushion, but can you tell which is which. I can't without looking back at the files.

IT LOOKS TO ME AS IF SOMEONE had put their kidding scenery on before they sprung this one, but I'm going to print it anyway, just to see what comes of it. I haven't heard of Harry Edels getting back into the game and I really think he would do better sticking to his present job.

Boston, March 16, 1910.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

We, the undersigned, are members of the Armory A. A., and there is a rumor around that Harry Edels is going to re-enter the ring. As he was one of the best welterweights around here a couple of years ago, we would all like to see him go. Every good fight he has been in has been out of town and we have not had a chance to see him. He has fought Harry Lewis, Terry Martin, Charlie Sieger, Arthur Cote, Dave Deshler, Jimmy Briggs, Larry Conley, Billy Burke, Bartley Conley and several other good welters. Now, why don't Johnny Mooney put him on so we members of the Armory A. A. can see him box? Hoping to see this in your valuable column, we remain,

Yours,
HARRY SIMMONS,
LOUIE JACOBS,
SAM DREW.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Please print this challenge in your column. "Kid" John Powers of Cambridge would like to meet any 115-pound boy in the State, Ben Thomas or Young Smith preferred.

TIMOTHY FORD, Manager,
190 Prospect street, Cambridge, Mass.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

I should be greatly obliged if you would state in your column how old Ty Cobb of Detroit is. Sincerely,

ANXIOUS TO KNOW.

According to the best dope I can get on Tyrus he is twenty-three years of age.

BALDWIN HAS SOME TOUGH BOUTS AHEAD

Matty Baldwin and his manager Aleck McLean who went to Kansas City last week, will not return to Boston for several weeks, as Baldwin has several matches on. Baldwin is booked to box Grover Hayes or Tommy Devlin in New Orleans, March 22, and Leonard Lauder in the same city March 26. After those bouts Baldwin will go to New York to fill several engagements. Manager McLean had offers for Baldwin to box in Sheridan, Wyo., and again in Kansas City, but he declined them.

YANKEE CRICKETERS WIN.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 19.—The Philadelphia cricketers won a game from a team made up of members of the army and navy by a net score of 84. The Americans in their first innings scored 170 and in the second 100, while the local players in their first innings made 107 runs and in the second 85.

YOUR EASTER SUIT WILL BE READY—

Several new customers seemed to be afraid that we wouldn't have their clothes all ready for Easter. Our regular patrons know that we always have everything ready on time—as promised.

You see, we have been 18 years in business and have built up a system of designing, cutting, making, fitting and finishing our goods that not only cuts out all wastefulness in cost, but enables us to follow a schedule as exact as a good railroad.

You keep your appointment with us for the fitting and you can depend upon us to be on time with the finished clothes when you call for them.

You are pretty familiar with Gale & Kent methods, if you have been following our advertising—still it won't harm anybody to repeat a good statement. We will make you a suit of clothes (or overcoat) from the finest and biggest line of new goods-in-the-piece to be found in any tailor shop in Boston for $15 to $25.

The clothes will be absolutely perfect in fit and style and the wear and workmanship will be guaranteed absolutely. You will not get an $80 suit of clothes or an overcoat that some Boston tailors sell to their best customers at $75 to $90. A statement to that effect would stamp us as unreliable before you ever came into our shop.

But you will get a suit (or overcoat) that no ready-made house in the city can duplicate at any price and no other tailor in Boston can equal within $15 more for suit or overcoat.

Every coat built at our shop is patterned after our famous design of "The-front-that-won't-break-down." This design is registered at the State House as our exclusive trade mark and no other tailor in America can even use the expression, legally. Call day or evening—open till 10 tonight. Any order booked today will be delivered for Easter, which comes a week from tomorrow.

LANGFORD BARS ONLY JEFF IN JOHNSON DEFI

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 19.—Following the fight here in which Sam Langford defeated Jim Flynn in the eighth round, Flynn went immediately to the baths from the arena and is unable or unwilling to make any statement regarding the fight. Langford said to-day:

"I was in better condition than for any fight in the last year and never was worried. I found that I could break through Flynn's cover and believe that I gave him the worst beating any fighter has taken in months. I am ready now to take on any fighter in the world, except Jeffries. I will fight Johnson after he is through with his fight with Jeffries, win, lose or draw, and bet him $10,000 on the side."

Langford and Flynn each received $5,745 for their fight at Vernon, Cal., Thursday. The gross receipts were $19,150.

TUFTS PLAYERS PRACTICE.

The Tufts baseball squad put in another afternoon in the Goddard gymnasium cage, Coach Robinson giving the men a two hours' batting drill. To-day another practice game is scheduled.

JOHNSON TRAINS EARLIER

CHICAGO, March 19.—Jack Johnson, being notified by Jack Gleason that the contest with Jeffries will be staged at Emeryville on July 4, decided to begin training in San Francisco early in April and not wait until May as he had intended. Johnson's trial on a charge of assault comes up in New York on March 23.

JOE THEEL IN DRAW BOUT.

READING, Pa., March 19.—Joe Theel of Philadelphia and Adolphe fought a ten-round draw here at the opening show tonight of the Douglass A. C. Adolphe had the better of the first five rounds, but Theel came back strong and the Frenchman was groggy at the close. The latter's vicious jabs swung wide through Theel's clever defence.

What is "Joe" Cannon? And Why?

Alfred Henry Lewis has answers to both of these questions in the April COSMOPOLITAN MAGAZINE, now on all news-stands—answers that will bite into your consciousness unforgettably with the acid of truth.

The whole sinister and subterranean meaning of Cannon and Cannonism is here laid bare with the swift, keen, scalpel-like strokes of a master of character analysis and incisive literary style.

"Slim, sinuous, supple, fierce in a little way, capable of entering a smallest hole and if needs press turning 'round in it, Mr. Cannon is essentially the weasel.*He can suck the yolk from the egg of popular advantage, and then hide the shell.*By shady sleight and dubious intrigue he has served his trust masters by suppressing House attacks and House investigations. Thus he is serving them as this is read."

Concerning Mr. Cannon's recent words, so heavy with significance, "If Mr. La Follette and Mr. Cummings are Republicans, then I am not," Mr. Lewis makes this disquieting declaration and prophecy: "They had been talked over and consented to by every trust in the land. They promise new parties, new issues, new lines. The war will be Income Tax against Tariff. Man against Money, West against East."

Among other features are: "THE CRIME OF OUR VANISHED SHIPS," by Lewis Nixon; "WHAT IS TO BECOME OF YOUR BABY?" by G. Stanley Hall; "MEXICO TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW," by Otheman Stevens; "THE ONLY OPERA OCTOPUS," by Pierre Van Rensselaer Key; stories by E. Phillips Oppenheim, Bruno Lessing, Roy Norton, Mary White Slater, etc.

BOSTON AMERICANS DOUBLE

Brace Up and You'll Win in Life's Battle

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

If you are discouraged and blue and life looks hard and the future hopeless to-day, do not grow cowardly and think of self-destruction as the door of escape.

You did not make yourself. You cannot unmake yourself.

By no process of reasoning can you explain this wonderful marvel of the life principle within you. Science has found all the ingredients which compose an egg chemically, and an egg which resembles the hen's product can be manufactured.

But it will not produce life.

Nothing can produce life but that unnamable mysterious Power back of the universe. Created beings carry on the life principle through succeeding generations and centuries, but its production and creation remain God's secret.

Death Shifts Scene of Action

All that death does is to shift the scene of action to another form and plane.

If you are miserable and unhappy you do not become happy by going to another town or State. You carry your wretchedness with you.

It is precisely the same when you rush out of the body by your own act. If you are called out of the body by the same Power that brought you into the world, then it is safe to suppose that conditions are ready for you to start anew in another plane.

Wait for that call.

The actor who rushes upon the stage before his cue is given spoils the play and ruins his own chances for glory.

Keep behind the earthly scenes until you hear the call. Meanwhile think well of your lines and be ready to do your best when called.

However discouraged you may be, thousands of successful and happy people in the world to-day have been just as discouraged and unhappy as you are at some time in their lives.

Health Within Your Control

No matter what your troubles are to-day, a year may scatter them and leave you with new hope and new interests in life.

If you are an invalid a year may restore your strength.

This is a wonderful age, and people are beginning to realize that health is greatly within one's own control.

Simple food, well masticated, as little meat as possible, much water, continual deep breathing to feed the body with pure oxygen, and continued assertions of health and strength, from the source of all energy, will restore three-fourths of all the invalids on earth, with no aid of medical skill. A two or three months', or even weeks', diet of raw vegetables, or milk and eggs, would restore half of the remainder, if coupled with the right mental attitude and exercise.

The day is nearing when sickness will mean disgrace or lack of brain.

Rest—and Then Brace Up

If you have no money and no employment, make up your mind that both are coming to you. If starvation seems imminent, go to the nearest house in the country and tell your condition. Not one door in one hundred will shut you out before bestowing a saving meal. If you are in a city the blessed Salvation Army will help you and will tell you of places to find shelter until you can look about and gain courage for a fresh start.

After you have rested for a day, brace up morally and mentally and declare that you are going to make a new start, and that the way will open, must open and has already opened to you for a new life.

TO-DAY'S BEST STORY

It was in the surgeon's reception room and the little man near the door, who had been waiting for a half hour or more, began to get fidgety.

"I can't wait here all day," he growled.

"Waiting for an operation?" the man next to him sympathetically inquired.

"No," snapped the little man, "I'm waiting to perform one."

The other man stared at him.

"Are you a surgeon?" he asked.

"No," replied the little man, "I'm a bill collector."

"Here's to Maiden of Bashful Fifteen!"—By Nell Brinkley

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner.

"Here's to the girl with a pair of blue eyes — and here's to the one with none, sir"

Here's to the maiden of bashful fifteen,
Now to the widow of fifty;
Here's to the flaunting, extravagant queen,
And here's to the housewife that's thrifty;
Let the toast pass,
Drink to the lass;
I'll warrant she'll prove
An excuse for the glass!
Here's to the charmer whose dimples we prize,
Here's to the damsel with none, sir!
Here's to the girl with a pair of blue eyes,
And now to the nymph with but one, sir
Let the toast pass, etc.
Here's to the maid with a bosom of snow,
Now to her that's as brown as a berry,
Here's to the wife with a face full of woe,
And now to the damsel that's merry!
Let the toast pass, etc.
For let her be clumsy or let her be slim,
Young or ancient, I care not a feather!
So fill up a bumper, nay, fill to the brim,
And let us e'en toast 'em together!
Let the toast pass,
Drink to the lass,
I'll warrant she'll prove
An excuse for the glass!

—SHERIDAN.

THAT is the very spirit-stuff of one kind of a bachelor. The lilting, half-merry, half-pensive song brings him sharp before your inturned eyes, the eyes you can see in the dark with. If you know one of his lovable kind. He loves all women—and has not one!

Some sassy, sour other kind of a hermit might say, "Now the latter is the cause-why of the former." But it isn't.

If it isn't that he once one time wanted one little old sweet, blue-eyed mouse in a pink sunbonnet and something happened right out of the sky that put out the light of the blue eyes and the sunbonnet forever and no other mouse would do, why then it's just a queer, twisted mood of fate.

It's the mood that sets the feet of the lover of plains and hills down in a path that runs a life-time along the sea-bitten, surf-trampled shore; the mood that builds a wall around the rover; the mood that sends on the long, endless trail of homeless globe-trotting, the man whose veins run hot with the crude home-building instinct; the mood that keeps empty and alone the arms of the woman who turns at every baby face on the street; the mood that paralyzes the artist's hand.

That's the twisted whim of fate that keeps the merry old lover of the feminine solitary in the yellow shine of his candles at his crackers and wine.

He best loves all girl and womankind, babies and is merry with them. He understands their weak spots and their faults and their reasons. He adores their failings and marvels at their cleverness, and can sniff their moods on the wind long before the breath of a cloud blows across the smiles on their faces—and he can manage 'em.

He can't tell which he loves the best, brown gypsy or white house-cat—black mistress Sans Merci, or golden coaxer, little maid or big maid, soft maid or tomboy! He loves 'em all.

He loves the beauties best;—he thinks! And yet that plain little dickens with the green eyes is dear to his heart.

Dames and Damosels, little girls, and "old" girls, kittens and cats, hausfraus and gadabouts—it really doesn't make any never-mind!

And they all have their hearts out for him. Some their caps—but all their hearts. Bullee Boy him! The man who travels the lonely path, whom the little kids and the dogs and the women love on sight—who sings the old song about "drink to the lass" and means it in the yellow glimmer of his candles over his crackers and wine.

Some women are wonderful, some are sweet, some we love and some are shrews—but here's to 'em a'. NELL BRINKLEY.

When Looking for Culture, Look at Home

By WINIFRED BLACK

SAMUEL E. WEBER, State inspector of high schools in Louisiana, says: The reason young men and women in the South are flocking from the farms to the city is not that they dislike fields and streams, but that they love and long for culture.

Well, I'm glad you think so, Mr. Weber. That sort of opinion sounds awfully well, especially on paper.

Perhaps the poor things do love and long for culture, but I'm afraid they get very little of it when they flock to the cities.

There is more real culture in one little village library than there is in a whole mile of Commonwealth avenue.

And what kind of culture is it that a girl finds in a working girls' boarding house?

And how cultivated are the young men after a couple of months—spent, most of it, in pool halls and cheap moving picture shows?

No. If a girl is lonely in the country, and hates to be called a jay worse than she hates to be half starved and wholly ill-treated, why let her leave her good, comfortable home on the farm and come to town and be citified to her heart's content.

Let her learn to do her hair so that it looks like a cocoanut door mat on a spree, and by the time she's had a chance to accumulate three strings of beads and a pair of dangle earrings she will look as if she had been brought up on the Bowery.

But she'll be mighty hungry sometimes, and mighty lonely, and so homesick that she'd walk two miles to hear a katydid, and a dozen miles for a meal of corn bread and a glass of real buttermilk.

As to the boy. Nobody blames him for leaving the farm. He wants to get out and see the world. He wouldn't be a man if he didn't.

But don't pretend that it's culture you are looking for, little brother, when its excitement and nickelodeons and vaudeville shows.

Stay at home if you want culture, brother Jonathan and sister Sue. The city is no place for such as you to find it.

My Ideal and I

We did not meet in glittering hall,
At mirth and beauty's court.
Nor yet at banquet, play, or ball
The scenes of fashion's sport;
Nor anywhere among the throng
Of gilded folly's slaves,
Whose queens make wealth the cloak of wrong,
Whose kings are secret knaves.

We did not meet among the flowers,
All in a garden fair,
Where bees and birds beguile the hours
And love is in the air;
Where Nature dons her richest robe
To charm all eyes that see,
And group the graces of the globe,
In bowers of Arcady.

We did not meet in foreign climes,
'Neath cold or sunny skies,
'Mid Scottish hills or Spanish limes,
Or where Sweet Como lies;
We did not meet in Summer, Spring,
In Winter's chilly Fall,
Ideals are aye evanishing—
We did not meet at all.

Bagley and the Pup

By KENNETT HARRIS

CONSIDERED from a humanitarian standpoint, Bagley was not remarkable. His sympathies had tolerably well-defined callouses on them here and there, just as yours and mine have—fortunately.

He could read his morning paper without being made wretched for the rest of the day, and go through a magazine (fiction and all) dry-eyed and without a suspicion of chokiness or a despairing sigh.

Nevertheless, Bagley had decent instincts that would not allow him to stand idly by when a dumb animal was being abused, and when the thick-necked person in the butcher shop kicked the dog from the threshold across the sidewalk to the wheel of a waiting dray, and stepped forward seeming about to repeat the kick Bagley intervened.

"I wouldn't do that," he said.

"Oh, you wouldn't, eh?" retorted the thick-necked person, with ferocious pleasantry. "Well, you don't have to, but you'd better stand aside if you don't want me to step on you."

Almost Won a Martyr's Crown

"That's all right, but you won't touch that dog," said Bagley, and as the thick-necked person pushed him aside, he hit out and landed on a brutal jaw, with about as much damaging effect as if he had punched the butcher's chopping block.

Before he could recover himself the thick-necked person, smote him on the nose and followed that with a blow that almost instantly closed his left eye.

Bagley fought back gamely, but if a policeman had not miraculously arrived in the nick of time, he might have been a worthy candidate for a crown of martyrdom.

As it was, after a brief altercation the thicked-necked person went back to his shop and Bagley picked up his hat and readjusted his collar and necktie. He was about to walk away when his eye fell on the brindled cause of the trouble who was sitting on his haunches a short distance away.

"Poor fellow," said Bagley. "Poor old chap!"

The dog made a dash at him, his body wriggling in an ecstasy of joyous emotion. Bagley snapped his fingers and the dog jumped on him, making frantic efforts to lick the hand that was caressing him.

Bagley was moved by the poor animal's gratitude; also a strong sense of the nobility of his own conduct was thrilling him. The pity of it was that there had been no witnesses of his heroism but the policeman, and the policeman had been unappreciative.

It was an ugly brute of a dog, mongrel from his too-long tail—a brindled epitome of breeds; but Bagley knew he had made in him a friend who would follow him through any adversity, who would leave the flesh-pots of the proud and rich to share a bare crust with him, so "Come along, pup," said Bagley, and the cur trotted along behind him with the air of one whose life destiny is fully settled.

Mrs. Bagley received the waif with a lack of enthusiasm. "What on earth do you want with a dog, my dear?" she said.

"There are several uses for him," replied Bagley. "To begin with, he will be a protector against burglars and tramps, small as he is, he can give an effective alarm, and furthermore, we might teach him tricks for the amusement of our guests and save the expense of a professional entertainer."

"Don't talk nonsense. Come and let me see if I can't do something for that poor eye," said Mrs. Bagley.

Installing Hector at Home.

Bagley fed the dog liberally that evening, and then took him down to the basement, where he lined a cracker box with some old carpet for Hector's bed. (He had decided to call the dog Hector.) He had barely reached the top of the stairs when the air was rent by dismal howlings. Bagley decided to pay no attention to these demonstrations of grief, in the fond hope that he dog would get tired.

Mrs. Bagley maintained an eloquent and exasperating silence. After about an hour of it, Bagley said, "He's lonely, poor fellow. He didn't like me to leave him."

Mrs. Bagley sniffed.

"I suppose you wouldn't want me to let him out?" Bagley asked. "It doesn't seem to me that he could do any harm."

"I most decidedly do not want him loose," declared Mrs. Bagley. "The idea of such a thing!"

"Oh, very well," said Bagley, and presently the howling ceased and didn't break out again until an hour after midnight. That time Bagley was obliged to go down and remonstrate with Hector, using an old broom.

The next morning, when he went to the basement, Hector welcomed him as effusively as ever, whereat Bagley's heart smote him for his severity.

After breakfast he took Hector for a walk. His wife tried to get him to stay at home on account of his eye, but he insisted that he was not likely to meet anybody. He did though. He met two elderly women, evidently strangers to the suburb, and Hector greeted them with the most extravagant demonstrations of joy.

"Come here, Hector," called Bagley, but Hector took not the slightest notice and as his new friends walked on, proceeded to follow them. Bagley whistled and called in a more peremptory manner, at which the two women stopped.

"Go to your master, nice doggie," said one. "You'll get into trouble if you don't."

Hector merely cringed.

"What a Brutal-Looking Man!"

"Poor fellow," said the other. "He looks as if he had been terribly ill-treated and half-starved. And what a brutal looking man! He's been fighting, don't you see?"

Bagley could just hear this. He called to Hector again, unavailingly and then, in bitterness of spirit, turned and walked away.

"Where is that dog?" asked Mrs. Bagley. "Did you see he pulled down those lace curtains that I had drying in the basement and tore them all into shreds?"

A day or two later as Bagley was returning home, a brindled dog pranced gaily across a road-width of mud puddles and planted his dripping paws on the suburbanite's previously immaculate trousers. It was Hector.

Bagley drew back his right leg and then kicked out with all the might in him. "Blame you to blamenation, you measly beast!" he exclaimed savagely as Hector lit howling. He took a step toward the dog, frowning.

"Oh, I wouldn't do that," said a man who had come up behind him. There was righteous indignation in the man's tone.

By CHARLES HENRY MELTZER.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Friday, the 18th of March, 1910, should be a memorable date in the history of music in America.

It will henceforward be associated in our minds with the first performance under the auspices of a management regularly in control of the Metropolitan Opera House of an opera by an American composer, illustrating an English libretto by an American and sung by an almost wholly American cast.

The work in question, to be sure, was in one act, and therefore not, perhaps, of enough importance to warrant much theorizing with regard to what may or may not be the bright future of opera in the vernacular.

But the production of that work did mark at least the beginning—and not as some I know hope, also the end—of a movement in favor of English (or American) opera.

Harvard Professor the Composer.

Frederick Converse, professor of music at Harvard, is the composer of "The Pipe of Desire,' which was performed last night. The librettist who supplied him with the book of the opera is George Edward Barton, a Boston architect.

In passing I may mention that, though the lower part of the Metropolitan was thronged and apparently interested in the fate of Mr. Converse's opera, there was a distressingly small attendance in the galleries.

From this it would not do, I think, to argue that New Yorkers are indifferent to the experimental performance of opera in English. Rather might one infer that they are distressful of new works by men whose names are not yet linked here with success.

Next I regret to say that, though there was much applause when the curtain fell on the last episode in the opera, it was misleading. "The Pipe of Desire" is not the triumph one might fancy after listening to that applause. At most it could be called a "success of esteem." But relatively speaking, it was a triumph for an American composer to have been made known to his country men on the boards of the most famous and fashionable opera house of the Metropolis.

Needs a Better Libretto.

Mr. Converse may therefore be congratulated even if his opera should not live beyond this season. And I feel confident that if he had had a good libretto to inspire him instead of the absurd book of Mr. Barton he would have rendered a more creditable account of himself as a dramatic composer than he did last night.

The score of the "The Pipe of Desire" is the achievement of a good, if not a very original or effective, musician. Mr. Converse has studied in good schools. He has sat at the feet of Wagner. He has learned all that could well be learned from "Tristram and Isolde."

Nor has he neglected the Italian modernists. Often, during the progress of his opera, we were reminded of Puccini and his "Pagliacci." His orchestration is both skilful and effective. But, being the expression in tones of a dull story, foggily set forth and lacking in relief, it has little variety and occasionally wearies the listener.

Story of the Opera.

The story of "The Pipe of Desire."

If I have fathomed it, it is an effort in the form of an allegory to explain the old, old truth that man does better to leave life and the affairs of life to the wise care of God than to attempt to act as his own Providence.

By playing on "the pipe" of his desire, in the book of Mr. Barton, the peasant Iolan brings death to his betrothed, Naola, and hastens his own end. The Law of Life, which, in his impatience he violates, is symbolized in a strange, dreary character, known to the Spirits of Nature, over whom he rules, as The Old One.

The background is a lovely woodland scene, with a broad valley and fair hills beyond. An ideal scene, as beautiful in suggestion as a Corot.

Among the musical episodes in the opera which linger more agreeably in the memory are a dance of Undines and other spirits, which has color and picturesqueness; Iolan's narrative, preceding his rape of the Pipe from The Old One, and, chiefly, a chorus, sung behind the scenes, after the death of Naola.

Not much, I admit, to plead in extenuation of the general monotony of the score.

But, as I have hinted, the faults of the opera and the failure of the artists in the cast to interpret it aright should be imputed largely to the libretto. Mr. Barton has not a spark of the dramatic instinct in him. Neither is he, in any high sense of the word, even lyrical. His exact text was written without regard for the effect it would produce when sung. That is its chief, glaring sin.

As for the interpretation:

To borrow the world-famous formula of the late Emile Zola, "J'accuse!"

Singers Are Criticised.

First, I accuse the singers, with the exception of Mr. Witherspoon, who took part in the performance of having neglected the rudiments of their profession by omitting to acquire the art of diction.

Next I denounce them for their deliberate, as well as their unwitting, perversions of English.

Lastly, I am tempted to believe some of them guilty of hostility to the idea, no less than to the practice, of singing opera in the vernacular.

Hardly one word in ten that fell from the lips of Louise Homer (the Naoia), of Riccardo Martin (the Iolan), and the other singers—always excepting Herbert Witherspoon (the First Gnome), and, to some extent, Clarence Whitehill (The Old One), was intelligible to our strained ears. Almost all the artists in the cast should go to school again.

It is singers—not the language—who are most harmful to the cause of English opera.

Alfred Hertz gave an impressive and eloquent, though at times somewhat boisterous, reading of Mr. Converse's music. The dances, like the grouping and costuming of the opera, did credit to the Metropolitan.

Eggs and Economics

By MILO HASTINGS

CHARLES H. PARSONS is the representative of one of the largest cold storage companies in the country. Writing for the Springfield Republican, with the avowed purpose of justifying the present condition of the food trade, Mr. Parsons publishes the following table as a typical division of the price paid for cold storage eggs in 1910 by the consumers in Eastern cities:

Farmer's price	16 cents
Cost of packing, etc.	2 cents
Shipper's profit	½ cent
Transportation	1½ cents
Storage charge	1½ cents
Interest, insurance, etc.	1 cent
Wholesaler's rehandling	1½ cents
Wholesaler's profit	2 cents
Retailer's profit	14 cents
Paid by the consumer	40 cents

Some things we hold to be improved with age, as cheese or whiskey. Other things there are that change their form as they pass through the chain of multiple ownership. Wheat, for example, then flour—bread—toast. Added labor, added cost—and, judged by our willingness to pay the price, added value.

With the egg, not so. The further it gets from the hen in hours, in miles, in the number of owners, the less we prize it. But for the less desirable product we pay the 150 per cent. increase over the farmer's price because the cook book says "take the whites of five eggs," and in the science of cooking there is no known egg substitute.

Mr. Parsons's object in publishing the above table was to show the relatively small amount of the consumer's egg money that is lodged on the particular step of the price-ladder wherefrom he gathers his living.

A cent and a half a dozen looks small, and is small, compared with the farmer's or retailer's share, but, figured out upon the basis of an annual egg crop of two billion dozens, it would more than pay the salaries of our sixty thousand postmasters.

Happily all eggs are not cold stored, and in the handling of the really and truly fresh eggs the items of "storage charge," "interest, insurance, etc.," drop out.

A sample of the margins in the handling of fresh eggs is shown from the following data:

On February 3, 1910, the average price for eggs paid to farmers in a number of Kansas towns was twenty-four cents. The wholesale price in New York for "Western firsts" was 31½ cents. Eggs of like grade were selling retail for 38, 45, 48 or 54 cents, according to the location of the retail shop.

Taking the season through and averaging cold storage with fresh twenty cents a dozen about represents the cost of transferring eggs from the country town markets of Kansas and Nebraska to the kitchen of the New York consumer. This is more than the farmer's price, which includes not only the cost of production, but a wagon haul of greater length than that at the city end of distribution.

The freight rate on eggs from Beatrice, Nebraska, to New York City, about as far as eggs are shipped commercially, is $1.21 a hundred pounds, or about 2 cents a dozen.

The farmer feeds the hen. The hen lays an egg. The farmer wants to sell the egg for a cent and a half. The railroad will take it fifteen hundred miles for a sixth of a cent. For our present scheme of transferring the ownership of the egg from the farmer, who knows that the consumer wants to buy the egg, to the consumer, who knows that the farmer wants to sell the egg, civilization charges two cents.

Some day some super-statesman is going to devise a plan by which the man who wants something can get it from the man who has something, by paying for the cost of bringing it to him, without giving toll at every turn of the highway.

INDIGESTION, HEARTBURN GAS AND STOMACH HEADACHE GO.

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomach trouble knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourest acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, Nauseous odors from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures Indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headache, Biliousness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your Stomach is sour and full of gas or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from Stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and, besides, one case is sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely, a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always, either at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

Opera-Goers Shudder in Terror Over "Tosca"

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

PUCCINI'S opera, "Tosca," was repeated at the Boston Opera House last evening. Fely Dereyne sang Floria Tosca, Constantino was Mario, and George Baklanoff, Scarpia.

Tosca is an opera of passion and violent death. All the leading characters die horribly, but poor Floria probably selected the worst punishment. Scarpia was about to clasp his beloved in his arms when the dear creature stabbed him with a bread-knife. Mario faced a firing squad with a smiling countenance, because he thought they were using blank cartridges, and his last sensation was probably one of surprise when the bullets hit him.

Tosca elected to jump from the roof of a very high building and presumably died when she struck the pavement. We ought to be grateful to Puccini that he did not show us how she looked after her landing.

And a Torture Scene, Too.

Incidentally there is a very harrowing torture scene in the second act and a disgusting exhibition of brutal passion on the part of Scarpia.

After the tra-la-la-laddy music of Rossini in "The Barber of Seville," on Wednesday, the savagery of "Tosca" was a horrible contrast, and yet the dramatic intensity of both the action and music of the latter work fascinates and enthrals, while the "Barber" alternately bores or mildly amuses.

Dereyne is an acceptable Tosca. She is delightful in the earlier scenes, and fairly adequate in the terrible second act, while she sings the prayer in most expressive manner.

Mario is a wonderful role when sung by Constantino. It is not a great tenor part in the hands of an indifferent man and in the past we have not appreciated the beauty and color of the aria in the first act nor the pure lyric grandeur of the death song, because they needed a brilliant tenor to interpret them.

Baklanoff is vocally a mighty Scarpia, but he does not make you hate him enough. Scarpia is a vile worm with no decent instincts.

"Lohengrin" in Italian.

The patrons of the popular priced performances at the Opera House will have the privilege this evening of witnessing the only performance of "Lohengrin" by the local company this season. "Lohengrin" was given on the road with singers from the Metropolitan Opera House in leading roles. To-night the principal parts will be sung by members of the Boston company. The opera will be sung in Italian instead of German.

SOCIAL AND CLUB NOTES

President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University and Mrs. Lowell and Professor Frederick Andberg of Oberlin College were the principal guests at the annual dinner of the New England Association of Oberlin, which was held last night at the Hotel Bellevue. E. V. Grabill, the retiring president of the association, was toastmaster. The following officers were elected: President, Curtis H. Waterman of Arlington; vice-president, R. H. Houser of Cambridge; corresponding secretary, Miss Minnie May of Newton; secretary and treasurer, Cleveland F. Witherby of Boston; executive committee, Professor T. N. Carver of Cambridge, L. D. Gibbs of Newton, Mrs. Mabel B. Dyer of Brookline and E. V. Grabill.

The Harvard Dramatic Club will produce four one-act plays on April 12, 14 and 16, under the direction of Frank Reicher of New York. The four plays were selected from more than thirty submitted in the club's Spring competition. The series opens with a tragedy by Paul Mariet, '11, "The Better Way," adapted from the Spanish of Alcaron. The second is a farce, "The Marvelous Bentham," by Hermann Hagerdon, '07. The third, "The New Age," by David Carb, '08, and the fourth, "The Better Man," is by T. H. Guild, a second year student in the graduate school.

The Practical Arts High School held a fair last evening in the Sarah J. Baker School on Perrin street. There was a large attendance. The articles were made by the school girls, and behind the counters were girls chosen to sell them. They wore sunbonnets, and the halls were decorated very prettily. The money which they obtain is to go for the furnishing of the material which is needed for the school.

The Klatsch Collegium (convocation of gossipers), the greatest of Winter events at Boston University College of Liberal Arts, was held last evening at the college building, Boylston and Exeter streets. Fully 1,500 attended the annual affair, given by the Gamma Delta Society, which includes in its membership all the women students of the university. Nearly every college in New England was represented.

Society Flocks To Charity Sale At Copley Hall

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT

ASIDE from the fair at Copley Hall this morning, continued from yesterday, there is little of interest to call out the fashionables to-day and the best our smart ones can do is to content themselves with contemplating the various events of the near future.

The younger members are looking anxiously forward to the dance which Mr. and Mrs. Louis Curtis of Beacon street are giving next Thursday evening for their young sons, Louis, Jr., and Lawrence Curtis, who are attending the Groton school, but who will then be home for their Easter vacation.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. James Dwight are to entertain twenty of the young people at a dinner which they are to give prior to the dance, at their residence on Beacon street in honor of their son and daughter, Philip and Ruth Dwight. Mr. and Mrs. Neal Rantoul will also entertain several of the young people at a dinner which they are giving the same night for their daughter, Miss Josephine Rantoul, at their Fairfield street home. Dr. and Mrs. Dwight and Mrs. Rantoul will take their young guests on to the dance after their dinners.

"CHANTECLER"—?

By Morton Birge

How do YOU say it—"Chantecler"?

IT vexeth much the common soul,
This royal Rostand rooster role.
It would appear, this "Chantecler,"
As though it rhymed with "her" or "err,"
But we may err. A voice says: "Here,
That rhymes with 'fear,' thus— 'Chante-clear.'"

I LOVE MAH CHICKEN BUT OH YOU SHANTY-CLARE

And then there is the nasal air,
The Gallic accent: "Shang-te-klare,"
Or something like it; but it's tough
To catch that Paris accent stuff.
There's "Shang-te-kleer" and "Shang-te-klare,"
And almost any way you care.

Some scorn the soft initial "Chang."
For "Francais" they don't care a hang.
They sound the letter "c" as hard
As "c" in "cat" or "cart" or "card."
For them no "Shang-te-klare" or "kleer,"
But only "Chan-chan-chan-ti-cleer."

The public's ruccussed up to-day
About this Rostand rooster play.

COLOR OF WATER

THE waters of the seas, lakes, rivers and streams in general are very often colored. For instance, the water of the Mediterranean Sea is not colorless, but green-blue; also there is a brilliant red river in South America. The St. Lawrence, in Canada, is pale green, and the Ottawa golden brown; where these two rivers meet quite frequently whole broad patches remain unmixed. Here is a gold patch and there a green one. Otherwise than this, water reflects the colors of its surroundings, and a so-called "Emerald pool" in the White Mountains, is green because the birches on its borders in early summer are brilliant green. The Blue Grotto, in Capri, Italy, shows a remarkable rich color, near to green-blue, because all the light received in that grotto comes through the water at its entrance and, as I said, the Mediterranean is green-blue. The water of the geysers in the Yellowstone Park are also colored by natural mineral dyes. You can dye your own glass of water by a piece of the bloodroot plant. Try it. That will be a vegetable dye.

'Glen Rock' Scene of Happy Return of Wedding Day

"Glen Rock," the beautiful Dutton estate in Malden, on the fringe of the wooded tracts of Middlesex Fells, was the scene of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Dutton.

Mr. Dutton is president of the firm of Houghton & Dutton, of which he was one of the founders and through whose efforts the firm has gained a reputation that ranks high among department store owners.

The interior of the Dutton mansion was decorated with roses, rare violets, orchids and banks of palms, while the exterior was festooned with greenery and flowers. The music furnished by the Boston Symphony orchestra delighted the hundred or more guests who had gathered to extend their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Dutton.

The guests were presented by ten ushers all of whom were relatives. They were Harry and George Dutton, sons; Dr. Benjamin D. Peaslee of Hillsboro, N. H.; Alexander McGregor, Elmer A. Lord and Alfred Lounsbury of New York, sons-in-law; Frank E. Hatch, a brother-in-law; Erving P. Morse and Perley Chase, grandsons by marriage, and J. Edward Dutton, a cousin.

Half a century ago Mr. Dutton married Miss Harriet Marion Conant, daughter of George Washington Conant of Enfield, N. H., and the couple have lived at Glen Rock for the past thirty-five years.

A solid gold service, presented by the buyers and managers of the store, was the only gift because of Mr. Dutton's modesty. When Mrs. Dutton was preparing the invitations he slipped into each envelope a tiny card requesting that gifts be omitted.

A host of letters and telegrams of congratulation, from employes in other lands and persons who were unable to be present, were received.

The great store, which to-day takes in almost an entire block and in which Mr. Dutton is so deeply engrossed, was started in January, 1874, on two floors of the old Pavilion building, which stood on the site of the present store.

FORMER CONGRESSMAN ASKS FOR DIVORCE

CHICAGO, March 18.—Friends of Mrs. Charles McGavin, wife of former Congressman McGavin, are amazed to-day at the action of the husband in filing a suit for divorce immediately following withdrawal of Mrs. McGavin's suit from the courts. Relatives of Mrs. McGavin, who before her marriage was the beautiful Mabel E. Tally, daughter of a retired real estate dealer of Washington, D. C., were said to have influenced her to withdraw her suit. Now the husband has started proceedings, charging cruelty. He alleges that his wife attacked him on numerous occasions, struck and beat him, and he says that he fears for his life.

PROPOSE SUFFRAGE MOVE OVER NATION

CHICAGO, March 19.—Women property owners in Chicago who have organized to fight the payment of taxes until they are given right of ballot, to-day sent invitations to national and State suffrage societies to make the movement country-wide. The "No vote, no tax" League proposed to make a test case of its principles in court in the suit of the county tax collector against Miss Belle Squires. "Is a husband to be classed under 'live stock' or a 'luxury' by women who pay taxes?" is the motto adopted for the league campaign.

The subscription will be closed at three o'clock P. M. on Tuesday, March 22, 1910, or earlier, the right being reserved to reject any applications and to award a smaller amount than applied for. The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice.

A first payment of $50 in New York funds per $1,000 Bond subscribed for must accompany all subscriptions. The balance of the amount due on bonds allotted upon subscriptions will be payable in New York funds on March 29, 1910, at the office of either of the undersigned, when the bonds will be delivered upon surrender of the allotment letter duly endorsed.

If no allotment be made, the first payment will be repaid in full, and if only a portion of the amount applied for be allotted, the balance of the first payment will be applied towards the amount due on March 29, 1910. No interest will be allowed on such first payment. Failure to pay the balance of the subscription price, when due, will render the previous payment liable to forfeiture.

These bonds are being offered simultaneously in London by Messrs. Speyer Brothers and The Union of London and Smith's Bank, Limited, and in Amsterdam by Messrs. Teixeira de Mattos Bros. and Messrs. Hope & Co.

Application will be made to list the bonds on the New York, London and Amsterdam Stock Exchanges.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

Fears are based exclusively upon what the Washington judges may do. Labor troubles, the money market, the Autumn elections are of no consequence.

$ $ $

A better demand for cash on the part of trade, business and manufacture shows that conditions throughout the country are promising enough, while the news from Washington, indicating that legislation may not be so drastic as has been feared, is quite gratifying to people generally in the Street.

$ $ $

It now remains to be seen whether the situation is strong enough to permit of the financing of business requirements and an upward speculative movement in the stock market at the same time.

$ $ $

The chief reason for advances for the present is its oversold condition. There is a small investment demand for most stocks, but in Steel this demand is active as a result of the remarkable annual report just made by the corporation.

$ $ $

It is popularly accepted that no mortal can foretell a United States Supreme Court decision. Yet supremely important decisions have been foretold—and practically anticipated in the markets—by those gifted with fine ears and sharp eyes, who have overheard a casual remark of a Supreme Court judge; who see that Judge Lurton—Taft's appointment—is one of the President's companions; who notice that the chief executive has a satisfied air when in Burton's company. Nevertheless, the Standard Oil institutions are doing business. They are seeking profitable employment for their money here as well as abroad.

$ $ $

Railroad gross earnings for the first week of March, so far received, are maintained in very satisfactory volume, the total for all United States roads reporting amounting to $7,275,381, an increase of 10.6 per cent. as compared with the earnings of the same roads last year. Earnings of practically every road reporting exhibit considerable increase, those of the leading systems in the South, West and Northwest being especially large.

$ $ $

Strength of Norfolk & Western is believed by the Street to be owing to plans of the Pennsylvania to lease it to the "Panhandle" on a guaranteed dividend basis of 6 per cent. Chesapeake & Ohio showed strength because of the new bond issue proposed in connection with the Hocking Valley purchase.

$ $ $

When the stock market gets in a condition like that at present the Street hears nothing whatever of expected developments in Reading, but when the market is on the boom the bulls in the stock can't say enough about the wonderful things that are to occur to put the security 20 points higher. Just now there is no news coming out whatever, but the pool is alert as usual.

$ $ $

In the copper stocks a weakness of Utah is attracting attention. It is owing to the great issue of new stock made recently in connection with the purchases of the Boston Consolidated and the Nevada Consolidated. It is about in line with other copper stocks, however, although Nevada Consolidated is showing comparatively better. Utah is nearly 5 points under the parity with Nevada Consolidated, according to the basis of the exchange recently made.

$ $ $

The importance of sentiment in connection with a mining stock has been shown in Chino Copper, which makes a greater showing than Miami in point of tonnage and values.

$ $ $

Advance of Lehigh Valley to the highest price on record caused a revival of the report that an actual alliance was soon to be made with the Rock Island system. As such an alliance could only be made by way of the Wabash the deal will necessarily take some time to work out. There is little doubt that it will be completed before many months. It is possible that the matter may be hurried should legislation at Washington assume a shape liable to interfere with the plan.

NEW ENGLAND BOOM BY LEGEND STAMP

The stamping of the legend "Made in New England" on all manufactured products of this section is under consideration by the Boston Chamber of Commerce as an effective means of advertising the commercial advantages of New England.

This activity on the part of the Chamber of Commerce follows a speech by Erman J. Ridgway in Boston a short time ago.

The Pilgrim Publicity Association is distributing literature on the subject through the mails.

SPLENDID SONG FREE—Taken from the "Chocolate Soldier" and given with the SUNDAY AMERICAN. Every music-lover should have this.

COUNCIL SLASHES MAYOR'S BUDGET

A reduction of $18,805 in the budget estimate of Mayor Fitzgerald has been made by the City Council. Further reductions are expected, as the Council only got about a third of the way through the budget. The cutting was as follows:

	Amt. allowed by Mayor	Cut
Building	$104,730	$2,730
Cemetery	80,000	5,000
Council proceedings	16,075	4,075
Collecting	130,000	6,000
Engineering	85,000	1,000

Total cut, $18,805.

NEW YORK BANK STATEMENT.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The weekly statement of averages of the associated banks, issued to-day, shows:

BOSTON STOCKS SAG AT CLOSE

STATE STREET—Although there were some fractional concessions at the opening the tone of the market was strong on fairly substantial trading, with Chesapeake & Ohio and Norfolk & Western most prominent.

The copper stocks soon began to sag, and when buying support was withdrawn prices reacted sharply under selling pressure by professionals, and by the end of the first hour the higher priced issues showed losses of over a point. This weakness in New York caused a reaction on the local market, but little stock came out on the decline, as it was obvious that the weakness was brought about by a professional raid. By 11:30 the bears withdrew their attack, as it was impossible to cause free liquidation.

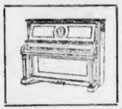
Big Piano Bargains



EVERY MAKE Are you thinking of buying a piano of some special make—a piano that has a good reputation—one that everyone knows is a first-class make? If you are, you are just the person to whom we wish to say—"Don't pay too much for it"—you will be asked a good round price for it unless you get it of us. We are in no trade or financial combination to keep the prices of pianos up—the name of a piano means much—it guarantees the instrument—but when the piano gets to our sacrifice floor the name is not considered. When we cut the price we cut all alike—and we cut deep. You buy while we cut.

The Governing Power Must Be Somewhere

Our Forefathers Took It Away from the People, and the Trust Owners Now Have It. Cannon as Trust Lackey

It would be well if every citizen could read the story that Alfred Henry Lewis writes in the April Cosmopolitan about Joseph Cannon.

Cannon is the ruler of the House of Representatives at Washington. There he is the ruler of legislation in this country. He can choke off legislation to oblige the trusts that own him. He can hurry on legislation after other trust-owned officials on the floor have set it going.

The story that Lewis tells is one to make the conscientious citizen ashamed of himself—and for that reason it is one that he ought to read.

Lewis quotes Cannon's cynical saying:

"If La Follette is a Republican, then I am not a Republican. If I am a Republican, then La Follette is not a Republican."

Joseph Cannon might as well have added:

"If La Follette is an honorable public official, then I am not an honorable public official."

La Follette IS an honorable official. He works for the people that sent him to the Senate. And in the Senate he tells the truth about such men as Cannon, and yet Cannon continues to have the power in this country.

In a nation of about 90,000,000 of human beings—a majority of them hard working, honest and anxious for decent government—such a man as Cannon rules, gladly doing the dirty work of the trusts. No wonder that muckrakers, big and little, poor-kind-hearted, dull reformers, who think they have discovered vice and virtue, ask, "What is the matter with the country? What is the matter with the government?"

There is just THIS the matter with the government: Our fathers were afraid of the power of kings. They hated the rule of England. They objected to the taxing power of Parliament.

When the old Americans established this country and Constitution their minds were full of the horror of government and its power and they had an idea that by constitutional hocus pocus government they could do away with power.

They did all they could to weaken the power of government, and in weakening the power of government THEY INCREASED INEVITABLY THE POWER OF ROCKEFELLERS, ARCHBOLDS, CANNONS AND MANY OTHERS. Our trouble was expressed by Reed, who presided in the House of Representatives before Cannon, when Reed said:

"I welcome any discussion which would create responsible government SOMEWHERE."

THAT is one trouble in this country. We have a government which puts the responsibility NOWHERE. Our forefathers forgot that power may be taken from one man and given to another. Power may be taken from government, BUT POWER MUST BE SOMEWHERE.

If the GOVERNMENT hasn't the power, then the private individual or the secret alliance of private individuals WILL HAVE THE POWER.

The power which should be in our government, for the wise use of which certain men or bodies should be responsible, is taken away from government, and you find that power in the checkbook of an Archbold, in the corrupt practices of a Foraker, in the servile lickspittle corporation service of a Cannon.

We have two law-making bodies, the House of Representatives and the Senate. One of them can kill the work that the other does, and therefore the trusts that can buy the boss of one or both of these law-making bodies can kill the laws that they do not want, and the people have no way whatever of forcing upon the statute books the laws THAT THEY DO WANT.

If the House and the Senate both agree by any accident to do what the corporations do NOT want, the trusts still have the President of the United States, who with his veto can kill the law and send it back, the law remaining dead unless it is passed by both houses by a strong majority.

And even if the corporations should fail with the lower House and the Senate and the President, THERE IS STILL THE SUPREME COURT. And more than one trust has put more than one man on the Supreme Court bench. And the man who fails to realize this or who fears to say it because of some bogie of court respect is an idiot and ought to be living under a despot and not under a republic.

This Supreme Court, when the trusts can control the man who has the final say, CAN DEFEAT AN INCOME TAX, AS IT DID NOT LONG AGO, AT THE BEHEST OF THE RICH.

All the way along the line there is somebody or something that organized wealth can use in its battles. And nowhere is there any means by which the PEOPLE can express their will and ENFORCE IT.

The President cannot be held responsible, for he can always say: "All I can do is to sign laws. If Congress doesn't SEND me the laws to sign I cannot sign them."

And the congressional members, as individuals, can say: "All I can do is to vote for the good laws; I am not the whole body, I cannot MAKE them."

Nobody is actually responsible. Well might Reed, although himself a part of the Republican corporation machine, long to see RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT SOMEWHERE.

This doesn't mean that we must go back to the days of kings and absolute rulers. It means that a mistake was made in this country in the Constitution of the Nation and in the Constitution of the State, taking away power from the people, which means the government, AND THUS PUTTING POWER IN THE HANDS OF INDIVIDUALS.

The State, for instance, or the city, has not the power to run a street car system or a gas company. That power is taken away by a constitution, and therefore private individuals HAVE THE POWER TO ROB THE PEOPLE INDEFINITELY THROUGH STREET CARS AND GAS COMPANIES.

What we need is not an autocrat to rule benevolently, but we need RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT SOMEWHERE, not in an individual, BUT IN THE PEOPLE.

The people should have the right to INITIATE legislation. They should have the power to recall and to remove from office any disloyal officials.

They will have it when they have time to think about government and when they get ready to prove themselves worthy of the vote.

A Demand for Direct Legislation That Is Extremely Conservative

Direct legislation is opposed by the State House lobby and by the selfish special interests that employ lobbies to help them to secure unwarranted favors from the Legislature. That should be reason enough for every honest man to look with favor upon a proposition having for its objective the placing of law-making power directly in the hands of the people.

There is a resolve before the Legislature at the present time which provides for an amendment to the constitution authorizing direct legislation or a people's veto through the optional referendum and a direct initiative by petition. It is based on the petition of John Weaver Sherman, representing the Legislative Committee of Boston's organized labor forces.

Improper Special Privileges.

It has the indorsement and support of numerous citizens' associations and public improvement societies throughout the Commonwealth and of large business interests. Mr. W. E. Butler, one of Boston's leading merchants, is one of the active advocates of the resolve.

In a few days, in the regular order of business, this matter will be reached on the House calendar. It should be thoroughly debated. Its course through the legislative channels has been given a good start, inasmuch as it has been favorably reported by the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, with but two changes from the original draft.

There are indications that the Republican State machine does not look with favor upon this measure, which would strengthen the hands of the people and deprive the interests that look for improper special privileges of the opportunity to secure them. The first vote of the committee was unanimously in favor of the slightly altered resolve. Later, three Republicans, Tolman of Gloucester, a Senator, Holman of Attleboro and Hathaway of New Bedford, Representatives, quietly filed their dissent to the report.

The proposed amendment to the constitution is very conservatively drawn. It provides for the popular initiative and referendum of laws that are not urgent or emergency measures. It does not interfere in the least with the enactment of urgent or necessary laws relating to the business, health or safety of the Commonwealth. It would not in any way embarrass appropriations for current and unusual expenses of government. Surrounded with these safeguards it is difficult to see what effective line of attack can be taken by the opponents of direct legislation.

There have been direct legislation measures before preceding Legislatures. They have been denounced as radical. The argument has been made that ours is a representative form of government and that the law-making power rests solely with the representatives elected to the Legislature. What a departure from the theory of government as understood by the fathers! To-day the argument is made that a representative form of government means that the representatives are the masters and not the servants of the people.

Town Meeting Principles.

Representative form of government is merely the outgrowth of the general assembly or "town meeting" form of government. Indeed, there is a provision in the constitution which says that the executive, legislative and judicial officials are but agents and substitutes of the people and are at all times accountable to them. But the constitution was framed in days when a man's ability and purpose to serve the people were the tests of his selection.

It was not thought necessary to provide a way to compel the "agents" or "substitutes" of the people to act in accordance with the popular will. In these modern times, when ability and purpose to serve the political bosses and the special interests are the tests of selection to public office, the fact is too often sadly brought to public attention that the framers of the constitution had too much faith in man.

Direct legislation would be a means of compelling members of the Legislature to obey the popular will. It would eliminate the power of the bosses. It would destroy the sinister influence of the special privilege-seeking class. It would do away with bribe-giving and bribe-taking. It would be a spur to able, honest and patriotic men to take a greater interest in public affairs. It would force men who would be legislators to inform themselves on public questions. It would encourage people to do their own thinking and would promote the general education on public questions.

Referendum Proposed.

Political parties in their platform for many years have declared in favor of some form of direct legislation. As a rule, the representatives of the Democratic party have voted in favor of direct legislation, but the Republican party, through its representatives at the State House, has prevented any form of direct law-making being put into operation.

The proposed amendment to the constitution now before the Legislature must be passed by a majority vote of the Senate and a two-thirds vote of the House this year and next, and the following year submitted to the people for their approval and ratification in order to become a part of the constitution of the Commonwealth. It proposes that general legislative authority be vested in the General Court with the people reserving to themselves power of proposing laws and amendments to the constitution and of enacting or rejecting them at the polls independently of the General Court.

It would give the people the right to initiate legislation on petition of 20 per cent. of the vote cast for Governor at the preceding election. If the measure thus petitioned for was not passed, was amended, or vetoed by the Governor, it would be referred, together with any amended form or substitute recommended by the General Court, to the people at the next State election.

Nothing could be fairer than the referendum proposed, which is that the referendum could be ordered either by the General Court or on petition of 15 per cent. of the vote cast for Governor at the preceding election. While emergency measures would not be affected by the proposed law, it is distinctly stipulated that "no grant of any franchises shall be declared to be an emergency measure." In that line may be seen the opposition of public service corporations.

The proposed amendment is drawn in plain and clear terms. Its purpose is obvious. It means simply this, that the people, dissatisfied with the work of the Legislature, or satisfied in their own minds that their representatives were not endeavoring to carry out the popular will, could take the law-making power into their own hands. It would seem to be clear enough that this is a proposition that deserves and should receive the encouragement and support of every patriotic citizen of Massachusetts.
